F. D. R. MAY TAKE

Tax Bill Is Major Block
to Adjournment Before
Democratic Convention;
Relief Ranked Second.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP) Prodded by leaders who eyed the necessity for another congressional recess if agreement on the tax bill did not come promptly, house and senate members trudged back to the capital today for a week of struggle toward a June 20 adjournment goal.

The tax measure stood pretty much where congress left it nine days ago when an interim was called for the republican national convention—stalled in a senate-house conference setup to bring accord in the conflicting ideas of the two congress branches.

While expressing hope for agreement on the tax and other pending bills this week, leaders indicated if that could not be realized a second recess to cover the period of the democratic national convention, opening at Philadelphia June 23, was probable.

Roosevelt Returns Today.
President Roosevelt's return to Washington tomorrow after a swing through the southwest was expected to stimulate the adjournment drive.

There was belief in some quarters of Capitol Hill that the White House might step into the picture if tax conferees are unable to reach a compromise and the resultant delay menaces adjournment.

The chief point of interest on the tax bill was the question of taxing undistributed corporate profits. The house graduated levy up to 42.12 percent as against the senate proposal of a flat 7 percent tax comes nearer to administration views.

Several senators who have been standing for the lower rate were described as almost ready to concede to the house.

In addition to the tax bill, there still was lacking agreement today on the $2,430,829,000 deficiency-relief bill. Conferees on the measure did not meet during the recess, putting off until this morning.

Don Maddox Injured
At Indian Springs Pool

His neck broken in a dive from a spring-board 20 feet high, Don Maddox, 15-year-old son of Henri A. Maddox, municipal revenue collector, was critically injured at about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Indian Springs swimming pool, near Jackson, Ga.

He struck in about five feet of water. He was rendered unconscious under the water and was discovered several minutes later by other swimmers. He was brought to the surface, revived and then taken to the home of his father.

From there he was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital, where it was said the lad was partially paralyzed from the neck down. He was visiting his grandfather, W. J. Bankston, at Jenkinsburg. He lives at 389 North Highland avenue, N. E.

Real Higher-Ups in Black
Legion Will Be Found,
Prosecutor Declares.

DETROIT, June 14.—(AP)—Although 42 men have been charged with Black Legion terrorism and at least 200 more have been questioned in the swiftly unfolding investigation of the hooded order, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrae announced today that "these are just the small fry."

"Somewhere, higher up, are the real brains, the men who conceived and executed all this wickedness," he said. "They are the ones we are going to find, eventually, and bring to justice."

Among the 15 men arraigned Saturday on charges of conspiracy to murder a Highland Park newspaper editor and a suburban mayor were a "state commander" and a "brigadier general" of the night riders' organization.

Two Leaders Held.

One of the 15 held under $25,000 bond on the conspiracy charge is Arthur F. Lupp Sr., state commander of the Black Legion and its principal Michigan recruiting officer, and another is Leslie J. Black, president of the Wolverine Republican League.

The names of both have cropped up repeatedly as arrests on charges ranging from murder, kidnapping and arson to simple assault have occurred almost daily since the "execution" of Charles A. Poole May 13 revealed the Black Legion's existence.

Lupp readily admitted his position in the Black Legion, but denied any knowledge of its terrorist activities.

Black, a tall Tennesseean in his early 30s who was a clerk in common places court until the Black Legion revelations, admitted organizing the Wolverine Republican League but denied he knew it was used as a "blind" by the Black Legion.

Ex-Mayor Held.
Still another of the 15 arraigned Saturday in the death plot conspiracy charge was N. Ray Markland, former mayor of Highland Park and a member of McCrae's staff until June 6, when he was suspended on suspicion of Black Legion membership.

Markland is charged with 11 others with sending out a picked squad of Black Legion gunmen, including Dayton Dean, confessed "trigger man" in the Poole slaying, to kill Arthur F. Kingley, community newspaper editor, who was fighting Markland's campaign for re-election. The remaining three are charged with a similar plot against William W. Volzine, mayor of down-river Ecorse.

All 15 are to be examined on the charges Monday.

"The 'brigades' and others held now are just the petty officers," McCrae said, "but some of them we expect to pick up the trail that will lead to the top. Then we will bring to light the Black Legion in its campaigns of terrorism."

ACCIDENTS DROP
AS OFFICERS NAB
11 IN CRASH DRIVE

Drunken Driving Charges
Show Sharp Fall; Child
Runs Into Side of Auto,
Is Critically Injured.

The drive of the motorcycle squad against traffic rule violators continued over the week-end with a total of 111 persons charged with various offenses between 7 o'clock Saturday night and 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

A sharp reduction in the number of motor accidents was noted, with but one accident resulting in serious injury, which was not held to be the fault of the driver.

Speeding still led the list of traffic offenses, with 35 persons being taken into custody on that charge. Charges of drunken driving showed a sharp decline, only seven persons being taken into custody on that charge.

Other offenses were passing stop signs, 20; reckless driving, 16; passing red signal lights, 16; leaving scene of accident, one; improper lights, four, and illegal parking two.

Darting into the side of an automobile Harriett (Danky) Harmon, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harmon, of 1207 West View drive, was probably fatally injured at about 8 o'clock last night on West View drive, near Halden street.

The was admitted to Grady hospital suffering from internal and head injuries. A technical charge of reckless driving was placed against a man listed as G. W. Heins, of 946 Westmoreland road, driver of the car, according to police reports.

Harley Wilkins, 36, a bookkeeper employed at Emory University, suffered a concussion of the brain at about 10:30 o'clock last night in an unusual motor accident at Sixth street and Royal avenue.

According to police, Wilkins was driving a 1935 Buick sedan.

IN JOYRIDE CRASH

Racing Cars in Double
Smashup as One Snags
Other in Pass Attempt.

A joyride ended in flames, wreckage and injury to seven youthful motorists shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

According to reports of DeKalb county police, the youths were racing and passing each other on Glenwood avenue, between Candler and Covington roads, traveling in an eastward direction.

One of the cars passed the other on the right. Either the fender or bumper caught, and one car plowed into a power pole, breaking it from the force of impact. This car then wedged between the pole and a tree, and burst into flames.

The other car, meanwhile, careened, overturned and smashed into the ditch of the youths' brough; residents running to the scene. The three in the flaming car were pulled out before they were burned.

Power lines dangled from the broken pole. Captain Ed Foster and Patrolmen Archie Curtis, R. G. Smith, W. B. Hill and C. W. Austin, of DeKalb county police, hurried to the scene. The car in the ditch was demolished.

Commissioner Succumbs

PAUL DOYAL.

PAUL DOYAL DIES
OF CRASH INJURIES

Revenue Commissioner
Was Hurt May 21; Rites
Will Be Held in Rome.

Paul H. Doyal, vice chairman of the State Revenue Commission and a member of that body since its creation in 1931, died yesterday at his residence, 902 Myrtle street, N. E., of injuries suffered May 21 in an automobile accident near Milledge, Ga. He was 60.

Doyal and J. Clark Fossett, of the commission's income tax division, were injured when their car collided with a McKee wholesale grocery company truck. Fossett is in a serious condition in a McKee hospital.

Doyal was appointed to the State Revenue Commission by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. for a six-year term. In 1932 he became chairman of the group, resigning several weeks ago during litigation over state affairs and becoming vice chairman.

A native of Floyd county, he was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1909. He was graduated from the National Law school, Washington, D. C., in 1902, and then began the practice of law in Rome, Ga.

He was later elected recorder and city attorney in Rome and in 1925 he was chosen as a member of the Georgia house of representatives, serving for two years.

In 1904 he married the former Miss Mary E. Norton, of Atlanta. She survives.

Doyal resigned as chairman of the revenue commission in April when legal entanglements made it necessary for Governor Talmadge to name G. B. Carreker controller general and ex-officio revenue commissioner, chairman of the board.

Since coming to Atlanta Doyal has been in charge of the income tax business of the commission and under his direction the state's yield from that source has mounted yearly until it has become one of the chief sources of general fund revenue.

Doyal was a member of the Baptist church, the Masons, Knights Templar and Shrine.

In addition to his wife he is survived by a son, Morton Doyal, of Canton, an employee of the Georgia Power Company, and Mary Jewett Doyal, of Atlanta, associated with Georgia Tech.

The body will be taken by H. M. Patterson & Son to Rome, Ga., for funeral services to be held at 3:30 o'clock (Atlanta time) this afternoon at the First Baptist church.

Burial will be in Myrtle Hill cemetery, Rome.

One Georgian Killed
In Macon Plane Crash

MACON, Ga., June 14.—(AP)—Russell Trawick, 20-year-old barber, was killed today when a biplane crashed in the crash of a two-seater open cockpit airplane here today.

Forney, a former Mercer University football star, was on vacation at his home here. He is a licensed pilot connected with the Air Lines Company at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The eight-seater plane clipped through treetops crashed and burst into flames.

Mathews suffered serious burns in an attempt to rescue Trawick, strapped to a seat. The pilot's condition was termed "fair" by hospital attendants tonight.

Ickes Pledges New PWA Efforts
To Spur Job-Making and Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Achievements of the Public Works Administration, three years old tomorrow, were recounted by Secretary Ickes today in a statement pledging new efforts to aid recovery with "useful" and "socially desirable" projects.

Asserting that policies which have governed the expenditure of $2,292,000,000 since President Roosevelt signed the National Recovery Act would be continued, Ickes said:

"The thousands of serviceable public facilities, now in use and other thousands under construction are the best evidence that this policy has been sound. No contention has been made that PWA projects are not 'useful.' Our record for three years on the score of the usefulness of the work we have done would meet any such challenge."

VINCENNES, Ind., June 14.—(AP) President Roosevelt today revived the western pioneers' principles of religion, morality and knowledge as essentials to good government and urged rigid conservation of national resources and a rearming against "new devices of crime and cupidity."

The chief executive made his address, last of the major speeches on a 4,000-mile western trip, in dedicating before upwards of 20,000 persons a beautiful granite memorial here on the Wabash to George Rogers Clark, northwest Revolutionary war hero.

Governor Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, introduced the President from a flag-covered platform in front of the circular granite monument of Greek architecture.

"On this spot," he said, "it was made known that we were to have a nation instead of a confederacy of seaboard states."

Taking as his text Clark's pronouncement that all religions would be tolerated in America and a 1787 ordinance encouraging religion, morality and knowledge, the President said:

Religion Still Free.
"Today religion is still free within our borders; it must ever remain so. Today morality means the same thing as it meant in the days of George Rogers Clark, though we must need apply it to many situations."

Georgian Receives Bonus Ahead of Time

L. O. POWELL.

Regular postal carriers of the Atlanta postoffice this afternoon will begin delivery of the "deliver to addressee only" mail carrying bonus bonds to 9,000 Atlanta veterans of the World War. Approximately $8,000,000 in bonds will be delivered in Atlanta and Fulton county.

The regular carriers will begin delivery of the bonds in the business area at 2 o'clock this afternoon and Postmaster Lon Livingston estimates that due to the smaller number of veterans giving business addresses for the delivery of the bonds, this delivery will be completed at about 3:30 o'clock.

All veterans who have given business section addresses for the delivery of their bonus bonds were urged by the postmaster yesterday to remain at these addresses until delivery is made this afternoon.

Home Deliveries.
The regular carriers will begin making special delivery of the bonds in the residential sections at 6:30 o'clock tonight and Postmaster Livingston estimated that deliveries will be completed in all sections by 11:30 o'clock tonight.

In the case of veterans who gave residence addresses for bond delivery, the postmaster also requested that the veterans remain at home from 6 o'clock tonight until their bonds are delivered.

The postmaster pointed out that with the envelope marked "deliver to addressee only," no other member of the family will be permitted to sign for the letters. Personal receipt is required.

The regular postal carriers will handle all of the bond mail and these carriers also will accomplish certification of veterans presenting the bonds at postoffices throughout the city, Livingston said.

Urging veterans who are not in immediate need of the funds to delay presenting their bonds for cashing to permit more needy veterans to obtain prompt service, the postmaster said that the procedure in cashing the bonds is as follows:

F. D. R. RE-ELECTION INSURANCE FIRMS
URGED BY NORRIS WARNED IN RACKET

Nebraska Declares Landon's Greatest Asset Is Nobody Knows Him.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP) Senator Norris, Nebraska, republican independent, today combined a plea for the re-election of President Roosevelt with an assertion that the republican national convention nominated a man "whose greatest asset is that nobody knows him."

Norris, who supported Mr. Roosevelt in the 1932 election, expressed his views today in a radio address.

Of the convention's selection of Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, as republican standard bearer, Norris said:

Nobody Knows Landon.
"These eminent gentlemen behind the smoke screen at Cleveland nominated a man for president whose greatest asset is that nobody knows him and nobody knows what he stands for. It does not necessarily follow from this that the nominee is not a good man. But it does mean that if he will not take orders from the undisclosed bosses who made him, then these eminent gentlemen have been deceived."

Norris said he was "not asking support" for Roosevelt, but "pleading with my countrymen to forget partisanship and come to the support of the man who more than any other man in recent years has stood for the welfare of the common people," he said.

"I want you to remember that these eminent gentlemen behind the smoke screen at Cleveland will attempt to buy the electorate at the coming presidential election. They will be supplied with funds from special interests which have come into conflict with the reform measures of President Roosevelt."

Republican Tactics.
"They will be careful in this coming campaign not to appear in the open, wherever they can conceal their attempts. They will wrap themselves in the American flag, stand on the platform of 'clean house' and 'no more federalism'."

South Florida Resorts
Evacuated for Storm

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 14.—(AP) Many beach residents at resorts on the Florida central and lower west coast evacuated their homes tonight and moved into cities as a moderate tropical disturbance approached.

The rain-swollen Imperial river drove Bonita Springs residents to the second floors of their homes.

The weather bureau at Jacksonville placed the storm about 100 miles southwest of Fort Myers and said it was moving in that direction about 17 miles an hour.

The latter city reported a falling barometer with torrential downpours. Rain today measured 5.22 inches, with continuing at the last report.

Tamiami Trail was practically closed to traffic in the region of Bonita Springs. Bus traffic was delayed until drivers could ascertain conditions.

The town of Everglades was cut off from outside communications by heavy rain.

Beach residents at Fort Myers, Sarasota, St. Petersburg and other points moved to cities as the storm approached.

Storm warnings which earlier were placed upon Tampa and Miami were extended from Tarpon Springs on the west coast to Titusville on the east coast.

Weather officials unofficially predicted the disturbance might reach a velocity of between 35 and 50 miles an hour.

McNair Seeks Peace
With Police Director

PITTSBURGH, June 14.—(AP)—William N. McNair, mayor of Pittsburgh, under $5,000 bond for "misbehavior" in office, opened the way today for an armistice in his battle with the police department. The sheriff is now in control.

He said a "farleigh" order for Safety Director Thomas A. Dunn will be ended and Dunn returned to duty. Dunn hasn't left.

The McNair-Dunn feud, with each claiming control of the police department, upset the law enforcement branch so badly Sheriff Frank L. Gollmar, of Allegheny county, took charge.

McNair had ordered 110 dismissals. Dunn refused to approve the action. Then McNair appointees and Dunnmen worked side-by-side in some districts.

'When My Baby Smiles at Me' Is Hit In Revival at Rite's 'Kiddie Revue'

"When My Baby Smiles at Me."

Almost 20 years ago, Ted Lewis came out of the West, and took Broadway by storm while he sang and pined his way to fame on that particular musical number.

At Loew's Grand theater, three-year-old Jimmy Leek gives his interpretation of the famous Lewis ditty—and more than 125 youngsters in the eighth, annual Kiddie Revue give the answer to the query: what happens when babies smile.

For 70 minutes, four times a day, these kiddies have been holding their audiences spellbound. Little Jimmy's performance is only one of many that have literally "stopped the show." A half-dozen ensemble numbers presented Atlanta's two to four-year-old chorines at their best. "Truckin'" as danced by Sara Fielding, Betty Verdi and Jeanne Mullin seemed to particularly delight the audience yesterday. Keith England and Margene Branch in "Musical Comedy Moments" was another favorite.

The Kiddie Revue is presented annually by the Masonic Club for the benefit of the Milk Fund of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. It will continue its run at Loew's Grand theater through Thursday, at 12:35, 3:20, 6:05 and 8:45 o'clock. Warner Baxter in "Robin Hood of El Dorado" is the screen attraction at the theater.

JOSEPH RAINE IS ILL IN KENTUCKY HOSPITAL

Joseph Raine, secretary of the Southeastern Underwriters Association, was recuperating last night in a Lexington (Ky.) hospital following a major operation performed Saturday. Members of his family are with him. Mr. Raine resides in Atlanta at 80 Park lane, N. E. His condition was reported as good last night to members of his household.

BERNARD AWTREY, 78, NEWSPAPERMAN, DIES

Marietta Resident Was Widely Known as Educator and Editor.

Bernard Awtrey, newspaper editor, columnist and educator, died Saturday at a Marietta hospital at the age of 78. He was a member of a pioneer Georgia family and his forebears were soldiers in the Revolutionary War.

Mr. Awtrey was county school superintendent and commissioner of Cobb county for 24 years and had served as editor of the Acworth Post, Cobb County Courier, Marietta News and Marietta Journal. At the time of his death he was a columnist for the Marietta Journal and the Cobb County Times.

A native of Georgia, Mr. Awtrey was born on his father's farm near Villa Rica. His parents were William Hill Awtrey and the former Miss Louise Walker Dodson. He received his early education in Carroll county and later was graduated from Oxford College, Oxford, Ala.; National Normal Institute, Lexington, Ohio, and the University of Georgia, receiving his law degree at the latter school.

Mr. Awtrey served as principal of Brewton Academy, Oxford College and the Acworth schools. He taught also in schools in Cobb county, Atlanta and Marshall, Texas.

During the war he served as food administrator for Cobb county and in that capacity he was responsible for the consolidation of 18 one-room schools.

Mr. Awtrey was secretary of the Smyrna National Farm Loan Association since its organization and served as president of the Sacred Harp Association for two years. In 1930 he was elected a delegate to the National Education Association convention in Dallas, Texas.

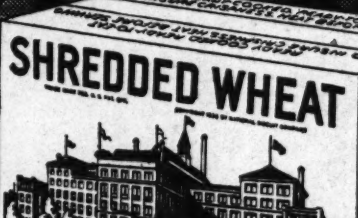

Mr. Awtrey was widely quoted in editorials on agricultural and educational subjects and his article, "Vindication," written at the time of the Frank case, was widely quoted in all sections of the nation.

Mr. Awtrey had been married twice. His first wife, the former Miss Margaret Ella King, of Oxford, Ala., died in 1896. His second wife, the former Miss Kate Leon Huffaker, of Marietta, whom he married in 1896, survives him.

Other survivors include five sons, Commander Robert King Awtrey, U. S. N.; Bernard Stator Awtrey, U. S. N.; Merrill Everett Awtrey, Walker Dodson Awtrey and Palmer Huffaker Awtrey, all of Marietta; five grandchildren; two brothers, Orlando Awtrey, Acworth, and Judge John Awtrey, Marietta; and a sister, Mrs. Ida A. Wedgeworth, of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the First Presbyterian church of Marietta.

EMORY UNIVERSITY OPENS TOMORROW

Summer Session Registration Starts This Morning; Plan Extensive Curriculum

The summer session of Emory University opens for registration at 8:30 o'clock this morning with the most extensive curriculum in its history, according to the announcement of Professor J. G. Stipe, registrar.

Professor Stipe said that special emphasis this year is being placed on courses which possess a general cultural value for the adult who wishes to continue his education, although the usual attention is being paid to courses in education for school teachers.

A special feature of the school this year is Le Maison Francais, a dormitory where only French is spoken. Mme. Jeanne Legarde Chappell, a native of France, will be in charge. The Sigma Chi fraternity house has been leased for this purpose.

The French government has offered two medals to be awarded students who do the best work in that language. Courses in art and music appreciation will be taught by Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, professor of fine arts. All schools, except medicine and library science, will be in operation. Classes begin tomorrow.

RURAL CITIZENS GREET FIRST LADY

Illinois Town of 1,954 Population Is Host to Mrs. Roosevelt.

GRAYVILLE, Ill., June 14.—(AP)—This little town of 1,954 men, women and children today felt itself the most important spot on the country's map. All dressed in its Sunday best it was hostess to the First Lady of the United States.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was really the house guest of her social secretary, Mrs. James M. Helm, the widow of Rear Admiral Helm, who maintains a summer home here. But this friendly little town of the Wash-bash river, in southeastern Illinois took the view also was its guest too.

Red, white and blue banners, everywhere of them new, were strung overhead along the "main drag." In the middle of each string was a large one reading "Welcome," which greeted Mrs. Roosevelt as she arrived with Mrs. M. T. Scheider, her personal secretary, and Mrs. Helm in an official car sent down by Governor Henry Horner.

Mrs. Roosevelt had left the President's party at Vincennes, Indiana.

for a three-day visit in this section. Early risers in this town saw men out mending his hose washing the streets. Soon the street corners were enlivened with youngsters who had that ear-washed look. By the time Mrs. Roosevelt's car reached town they had been joined by their mothers, fathers, aunts, uncles and grandparents.

Man Leaps From Viaduct Fleeing With Potatoes

Broken back and severe head injuries were suffered by a negro who leaped from the Washington street viaduct, over Decatur street, as he was being pursued by a produce dealer from whom he had stolen a sack of potatoes early yesterday morning, according to police reports.

The negro was listed as Charles Evans, 28, of a Piedmont avenue address. His condition is critical. He was found unconscious under the viaduct by Patrolman E. C. Tuggle, who took him to the hospital.

According to police, the negro was pursued by S. W. Granade, who has an establishment in the state farmers' market. Granade told police he saw the negro take the potatoes and immediately chased him. As he gained ground on him on the viaduct, the negro jumped.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS

Sessions of the Atlanta University summer school will begin at 7:30 o'clock this morning with a large number of men and women enrolled for graduate work.

At the registration on Saturday, 429 persons enrolled, and of this number 173 are graduate students. Dr. Willis J. King, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, will speak at an assembly at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

SALARY SLICE FIGHT FACES COUNCIL TODAY

Carpenter Opposes Recommendations Made by Finance Committee.

A councilmanic battle over recommendations of the finance committee that $32,000 additional revenue be distributed to meet needs of various city departments is expected to feature tonight's meeting of city council.

Chairman Robert Carpenter, who maintains that the sum could be diverted to restore two and a half percent of the 10 per cent salary slash imposed on all non-school employees who earn more than $100 monthly, is slated to lead the fight, according to reports.

It was said that Carpenter will insist that the entire amount be devoted to reinstatement of salary cuts, vigorously opposing to distribution of the funds to various departments.

On the other side, Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the finance committee, has pointed out that some of the departments will be virtually closed down if the funds are diverted, and thus the services which citizens have a right to expect and to demand will be discontinued.

He also pointed out that departmental requests have already been cut to the bone. The departments sought $110,000, but the $32,000 constituted all available funds.

G. O. P. ASSERTS FARLEY IS OPPOSED TO LANDON

Hamilton Also Says Democrat Is Dissatisfied With Platform.

CHICAGO, June 14.—(AP)—John Hamilton, new chairman of the republican national committee, charged in a statement today that Democratic Chairman James A. Farley had tried "for months to prevent the nomination" of Governor Alf M. Landon and was "clearly dissatisfied" with both the republican presidential choice and the party's platform.

Hamilton's statement was in answer to one issued in New York last night by Farley, who charged the G. O. P.'s Cleveland convention had nominated a "synthetic candidate on a counterfeit New Deal platform."

Dirt Against Dirt.
Hamilton said: "If it's going to be a dirty campaign we'll let him (Farley) set the tempo of it."

Hamilton planned to confer by telephone with Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and the republican vice president, before proceeding to Topeka, Kan., for further conferences with Governor Landon.

He declared Farley "seems irritated that the (republican) party did not accept his impartial advice, and he expresses his irritation in his usual intemperate language."

Declining any desire to "indulge" in a battle of statements with Mr. Farley, Hamilton defended the republican monetary plank and Governor Landon's interpretation of it in these words: "Convenient Memory."

"I am not surprised that Mr. Farley should have seen fit to refer to Governor Landon's interpretation of the monetary plank as a hazy one, for I know that anything having to do with a sound monetary system is hazy to Mr. Farley. And it is quite comprehensible that he should have not understood either Governor Landon's interpretation or the platform which provided for sound currency to be preserved at all hazards."

"Mr. Farley, like his chief, has conveniently forgotten that these words were included in the democratic platform of 1932."

Hamilton's Answer To Farley's Charges

CHICAGO, June 14.—(AP)—The statement issued today by John Hamilton, chairman of the republican national committee, in answer to a statement last night by James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, follows:

"Mr. Farley is, of course, both frightened and disappointed. He is clearly dissatisfied both with the republican candidate for the presidency and with the republican platform. That was one of the purposes of the Cleveland convention. He has been trying for months to prevent the nomination of Governor Landon. He seems irritated that the party did not accept his impartial advice, and he expresses his irritation in his usual intemperate language."

"I am not particularly anxious to indulge in a battle of statements with Mr. Farley, but if he desires to continue during the coming weeks to misrepresent everything which is too honest for him to understand, I am perfectly willing to take issue with him. I shall, however, always keep some confusion during this campaign in answering Mr. Farley. I know whether he was making his statement as the postmaster general or the chairman of the democratic national committee I could probably answer him more effectively."

HAMILTON CHARGES FARLEY CAN'T ANSWER
The republican platform contains certain hard truths about the record of the New Deal which the record of the New Deal which Mr. Farley does not want to answer. By his silence I assume he admits that the entire indictment is true. As a matter of fact, he admits this by more than silence when he agrees that there are crucial domestic problems pressing for solution. There is a crucial domestic problem and that is in getting rid of the present "grab bag" gang in Washington."

"Mr. Farley says the 'great game of deception will soon be under way.' The citizens of this country, including many of those who once belonged to the apparently debunked democratic party, had thought that the game of deception had been going on at a high rate of speed for the last three and one-half years."

"I am not surprised that Mr. Farley should have seen fit to refer to Governor Landon's interpretation of the monetary plank as a hazy one, for I know that anything having to do with a sound monetary system is hazy to Mr. Farley. And it is quite comprehensible that he should have not understood either Governor Landon's interpretation or the platform which provided for sound currency to be preserved at all hazards."

which George Rogers Clark never dreamed of.

"It is his day among the pioneers there were jumpers of land claims and those who sought to swindle their neighbors, though they were poor in this world's goods and lived in sparsely settled communities."

"Today among our teeming millions there are still those who by honorable means seek to obtain the possessions of their unwary neighbors. Our modern civilization must constantly protect itself against moral defects whose objectives are the same but whose methods are more subtle than their prototypes of a century and a half ago."

"We do not change our form of free government when we arm ourselves with new weapons against new devices of crime and cupidity."

Wider Knowledge.
The President asserted "today we have wider knowledge, but it is a vastly wider knowledge."

He then pointed out how the pioneer settlers of the northwest lacked foresight in protecting natural resources and declared:

"Because man did not have our knowledge in those older days, we have wounded Nature and Nature has taken offense."

"It is the task of us, the living, to restore to Nature many of the riches we have taken from her in order that she may smile once more upon those who come after us."

The thousands who spread over the greenward fronting the magnificent memorial remained silent throughout most of the speech, interrupting with applause, however, as the President uttered the three points—religion, morality and knowledge.

A cheer went up as an American Legion glee club sang and a band played "On the Banks of the Wabash."

Moves to Kentucky.
Immediately after completing his address, the President motored back to his special train, which moved off shortly thereafter for Hodgenville, Ky., where he will make an informal address at the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who met the President at Memphis and went with him on his trip to Arkansas and Texas, told him good-bye here and went in Governor Henry E. Horner's private car to Grayville, Ill., where she spoke before a farmer's picnic. She will remain in Illinois until Tuesday, when she goes to Indianapolis to give a lecture and probably attend the Indiana state democratic convention.

Governor Horner and Governor Horner escorted the President to his train and then returned to the park where the ceremonies continued with dedication of the memorials to Colonel Francis Vigo and General Pierre Galt, the trader and priest who aided Clark in his conquest of the northwest territory.

Augusto Russo, Italian ambassador at Washington, who flew here yesterday in a private plane, made the dedicatory address at the statue of Colonel Vigo and Bishop J. H. Schlarman of Louisville, who dedicated the monument to Father Galt.

State police estimated that between 75,000 and 100,000 persons saw the President on his trip to Vincennes, either along the route to and from his special train or at the dedicatory ceremonies.

ROOSEVELT ENDS TOURS, STARTS HOME
LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, after a short stay in Kentucky, left here late today for Washington. He came to Kentucky from Vincennes, Ind., where he spoke earlier today.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a formal statement issued on his train after visiting Lincoln's birthplace at Hodgenville, Ky., earlier in the day, urged a new pledge of "fidelity to the faith which Lincoln held in the common man—the faith so simply expressed when he said: 'I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is not democracy.'"

The President's trip to the western speaking trip at the birthplace of the Civil War President, where a throng of Kentuckians stood in Monticello, near a blizzard sun and watched him tour the granite enclosed log cabin and sign the guest book.

He made no speech at the hallowed spot.

During the past week I have traveled through many states; and as I have looked out in the daylight hours upon the country-side of Tennessee and Alabama and Arkansas and Texas and Oklahoma, I have tried to visualize what that countryside looked like a short century ago. All of it was primeval forest or untamed prairie inhabited by an exceedingly small population of nomadic Indian tribes, untouched by white man's civilization.

In most of this vast territory, as here in the middle west, nature gave her bounteous gifts to the new settlers, and for many long years these gifts were received without thought for the future. Here was an in-

Text of Roosevelt's Address At George Rogers Clark Shrine

VINCENNES, Ind., June 14.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's speech here today dedicating the George Rogers Clark memorial.

Events of history take on their due proportions when viewed in the light of time. With every passing year the capture of Vincennes, more than a century and a half ago when the 13 colonies were seeking their independence, assumes greater and more permanent significance.

The first grave danger as the War of the Revolution progressed, lay in the efforts of the British, with their Indian allies, to drive a wedge from Canada through the valley of Lake Champlain and the valley of the Mohawk, to meet the British frigates from New York at the head of navigation on the Hudson river. If the important offensive in 1777 had been successful, New England would have been cut off from the states lying to the south, and by holding the line of the Hudson the British, without much doubt, could have conquered first one-half and then the other half of the United colonies.

The defeat and surrender of General Burgoyne at Saratoga is definitely recognized as the turning point of the revolution.

26. The great danger lay, therefore, not in the immediate defeat of the colonies, but rather in their inability to maintain themselves and drive the British back to Canada. Records show that the British planned a definite encircling in process, whereby the new nation would be strictly limited in area and in activity to the territory lying south of Canada and east of the Alleghany mountains.

MASTER STRATEGY OF ROGERS CLARK
Toward this end they conducted military operations on an important scale in the Alleghenies, with the purpose, at first successful, of driving back eastward across the mountains all those Americans who, before the revolution, had crossed into what is now Ohio and Michigan and Indiana and Illinois and Kentucky and Tennessee.

In the year 1778, the picture of this western country was dark indeed. The English held all the region northwest of the Ohio and their Indian allies were burning cabins and driving the settlers back across the mountains south of the river. Three regular forts were all that remained in Kentucky, and their fall seemed inevitable.

Then, against the dark background, stood forth the tall young Virginian, George Rogers Clark. Out of despair and destruction he brought concerted action. With a flash of genius, the 26-year-old leader conceived a campaign—a brilliant masterpiece of military strategy.

Working with the good will of the French settlers, and overcoming Indians by sheer bravado, he swept through Kaskaskia and other towns of the Illinois country.

A NARRATIVE WORTH REPEATING
But the menace of the regular British forces remained. Colonel Henry Hamilton, the British commander of the northwest, had come down from Detroit and seized and fortified Vincennes. Fort Sackville, where we stand today, Clark's position was untenable. His desperate resolution to save his men and the northwest by a mid-winter march and an attack by rifleman on a fort manned by the regulars, and equipped with cannon, marked the heroic measure of the man.

It is worth repeating—the story that the famous winter march began on the 19th of December, 1778, with a religious service. To Father Pierre Gibault, and to Colonel Francis Vigo, a patriot of Italian birth, next to Clark himself, the United States is indebted for the saving of the northwest territory. And it was in the little log church, predecessor of yonder church of Saint Francis Xavier, the Colonel Hamilton surrendered Vincennes to George Rogers Clark.

RELIGION, REVOLUTION WERE TWIN FORCES
It is not a coincidence that this service in dedication of a noble monument takes place on a Sunday morning. Governor McNutt and I are aware of the historic relationship of religion to this campaign of the Revolution, and the later ordinance of 1787, have understood and felt the appropriateness of today.

Clark had declared at Kaskaskia that all religions would be tolerated in America. Eight years later the ordinance of 1787, which established the territory northwest of the Ohio river, provided that "no person demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner, shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or for religious sentiments in the said territory."

And the ordinance went on to declare that "religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education, shall forever be encouraged. It seems to me that 149 years later the people of the United States in every part thereof, could reiterate and continue to strive for the principle of religion, morality and knowledge are necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind."

Today religion is still free within our borders; it must ever remain so. Today morality means the same thing as it meant in the days of George Rogers Clark, though we must need apply it to many, many situations which George Rogers Clark never dreamt of. In his day among the pioneers there were jumpers of land claims and those who sought to swindle their neighbors, though they were poor in this world's goods and lived in sparsely settled communities.

MODERN "SWINDLERS" MORE SUBTLE
Today among our teeming millions there are still those who by dishonorable means seek to obtain the possessions of their unwary neighbors. Our modern civilization must constantly protect itself against moral defects whose objectives are the same but whose methods are more subtle than their prototypes of a century and a half ago. We do not change our form of free government when we arm ourselves with new weapons against new devices of crime and cupidity.

Today, as in 1787 we have knowledge; but it is a vastly wider knowledge.

During the past week I have traveled through many states; and as I have looked out in the daylight hours upon the country-side of Tennessee and Alabama and Arkansas and Texas and Oklahoma, I have tried to visualize what that countryside looked like a short century ago. All of it was primeval forest or untamed prairie inhabited by an exceedingly small population of nomadic Indian tribes, untouched by white man's civilization.

In most of this vast territory, as here in the middle west, nature gave her bounteous gifts to the new settlers, and for many long years these gifts were received without thought for the future. Here was an instance where the knowledge of the day was yet insufficient to see the danger that lay ahead.

WHO THOUGHT OF TRAGIC CONSEQUENCES?
Who, even among the second and third generation of the settlers of this virgin land gave heed to the future results that attended the cutting of the timber which denuded the greater part of the watershed?

Who, among them, gave thought to the tragic extermination of the wild life which formed the principal article of food of the pioneers?

Who, among them had ever heard the term "sub-marginal land" or worried about what would happen when the original soil played out or ran off to the ocean?

Who among them were concerned if the market price for livestock for the moment justified the overgrazing of pastures, or a temporary boom in the price of cotton or corn tempted them to forget that rotation of crops was a farming maxim as far back as the days of ancient Babylon?

Who among them regarded floods as preventable?

Who among them thought of the use of coal, oil, or gas, or falling water as the means of turning their wheels and lighting their homes?

Who among them visualized the day when the sun would be darkened as far east as the waters of the Atlantic by great clouds of top soil borne by the wind from what has been great and apparently imperishable prairies?

WE MUST RESTORE RICHES TO NATURE
Because man did not have our knowledge in those older days, we have wounded Nature and Nature has taken offense. It is the task of us, the living, to restore to Nature many of the riches we have taken from her in order that she may smile once more upon those who come after us.

George Rogers Clark did battle against the tomahawk and the rifle. He saved for us the fair land that lay between the mountains and the Father of Waters. His task is not done. Though we fight with weapons new to him, it is still our duty to continue the saving of this fair land.

May the Americans who, a century and a half from now, celebrate at this spot the 300th anniversary of the heroism of Clark and his men, think kindly of us for the part we are taking today in preserving the nation.

POOR OPINION. WEALTHY YOUTH DIES.

BOSTON, June 14

AMELIA EARHART JOINS W.C.T.U. DRIVE IN TULSA
TULSA, Okla., June 14.—(UP)—National dry forces, led by Amelia Earhart Putnam, famed aviatrix, converged on Tulsa today and transformed Sabbath services into a roiling battle against repeal.

Carrying the fight to leaders of the wet movement, members of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union, in annual convention, took over church rituals on all fronts to champion the dry cause.

Miss Earhart spoke before 3,000 in convention hall.

She described her 1932 solo flight across the Atlantic, by which feat she won the title "No. 1 Airwoman," and said she "would be afraid to use stimulants and try to fly an airplane."

Her audience cheered.

TO LEAVE ARKANSAS

ENGLAND, Ark., June 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Lula Tuveson, South Bend (Ind.) widow, returned here tonight from a three-hour visit with Ed Hardwick, life term at Tucker state prison farm, and announced that when she leaves the state this week-end she "never expects to return to Arkansas again."

He served in the state legislature for three consecutive terms from Thomas county and was chairman of the board of trustees of Meigs schools. He has been an officer of the Bank of Meigs for 25 years and has been a farm owner since 1900.

Mr. Davis said in making the announcement that he believed his wide business and professional associations gave him a comprehensive understanding of the needs of Georgians and that he is prepared to continue serving for the best interests of all Georgians.

THOMAS DAVIS SEEKS COMMISSION ELECTION

Meigs Farmer, Banker Announces Candidacy; Asks Support on Record.

Thomas K. Davis, of Meigs, Ga., announced his candidacy yesterday to succeed himself as public service commissioner and asked the support of Georgia voters on his past record of service.

Davis is a native of Thomas county, having been born near Cairo. He was reared in the North Carolina settlement in the southeastern corner of Decatur county.

He was educated in the common schools, the Cairo and Bainbridge High schools and the State Normal College at Athens. He taught school for 10 years and operated a farm for a similar period.

President Wilson appointed Davis as postmaster of Meigs and the commissioner served in that capacity throughout the Wilson administration.

ALPHA FOWLER TO RUN FOR GEORGIA SENATE

Douglas County Resident Re-enters State Politics; Entry Already Filed.

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., June 14.—Alpha A. Fowler, Douglas county businessman and farmer, today formally announced his re-entry into state politics as a candidate for the senate from this district, comprising Douglas, Cobb and Cherokee counties.

Fowler announced that he already had filed his entry with Tom Arnold, of Canton, secretary of the district committee. The Douglas county candidate operates a large farm near here and also has extensive theater interests in Atlanta and near-by cities.

Senator Fowler served four years in the house of representatives from 1927 to 1930, inclusive. He also served in the senate in 1931 and 1932, being chairman of the committee on public utilities in the upper branch of the general assembly.

In his announcement here today, Fowler said that he was the candidate of no faction and would vote his own convictions on all issues.

"I will try to co-operate with the Governor, whoever he may be," he said. "I will vote for his measures when I think they are right but I will oppose them when I think they are wrong."

Fowler said he stood wholeheartedly for Georgia participation in the social security program of President Roosevelt.

"I believe that Georgia should take care of its old people and therefore will work for old-age pensions," he declared. "Georgia can easily participate in this great beneficial endeavor and I see no reason why we should not."

Senator Fowler also said he favored a general improvement in the state's education system.

"Georgia is too far down in the list in education," he declared. "I have always stood for better schools and better paid teachers and I will continue to stand for them. We cannot build a great state unless our people are given every advantage of an early education."

ATLANTIAN IS DROWNED IN RIVER NEAR LITHONIA

Companion Attempts Rescue, and Is in Turn Saved by Friend.

Despite a heroic rescue attempt by a companion who could not swim and who almost lost his own life, Joseph Thomas Tumlin, 16, of 314 Grant street, S. E., was drowned at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the South river at Panola Shoals, near Lithonia.

According to his companions, Luther Tumlin, 17, a cousin, of 1048 Dunwoody street, and Harry Farrell, 17, of 1062 Capitol avenue, Tumlin had been walking in water up to his chest when he suddenly became caught in a swirling eddy that pulled him out beyond his depth.

His cousin, who was in shallow water nearby, immediately went out to him, and in attempting to bring him in, was nearly drowned. Farrell, not a strong swimmer, jumped into the water and managed to bring Luther ashore.

Meanwhile, the other lad had gone down. Ernest Clark, of Lithonia, dove into the water several times and finally recovered Tumlin's body. A doctor from Lithonia was called, and efforts were made to revive him.

Finally, hope was abandoned and the drowned youth was taken to his home in Atlanta, where a fire rescue squad also attempted to revive him. The body was then removed to the mortuary of J. Austin Dillon.

Tumlin went to the shoals in the morning with his cousin and the other youth.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Tumlin; two sisters, Betty and Mary Mae Tumlin; a brother, Lewis; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tumlin and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Slaughter.

Bruises and scratches observed on the body were found to have been made by those attempting to revive him by artificial respiration, police announced.

'LIBERTY' LEAGUE RAPS U. S. POWER POLICIES

Pamphlet Envisions Threat of Socialization of All Industries.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Protesting that "radical experimentation" has "run riot" in the electric industry, the American Liberty League today issued a 30-page pamphlet condemning the power policies of the New Deal.

"The steps toward socialization of the electric power industry, already taken in an unbelievably short space of time, bear witness to what may be imminent in other industries if present policies are continued," the booklet said.

"The government has seized the market of the private electric power industry in many areas. The threat of complete socialization hangs over the industry in practically all sections of the country."

The League denied that TVA deserved credit for "greatly increased" sales of electricity and appliances by private companies in the Tennessee valley. The state of Georgia led all states east of the Mississippi in home power consumption as early as 1932, it said, and the recent rise in appliance sales has been greater elsewhere than in the TVA area.

The administration's flood control and navigation improvement measures were described as "legal fictions" to disguise efforts to socialize the power industry.

The TVA proposes in its program of reservoir construction to inundate permanently considerably more than twice as much land in the Tennessee valley as ever has been affected by floods," the League said. "No important development of navigation is expected, and if it actually took place the chief effect would be to injure the railroads."

The League listed 10 congressional activities, which it contended contributed to the trend toward socialization. They included TVA, the Rural Electrification Administration, federal grants for local power projects and the proposed Mississippi Valley Authority.

The Mississippi Valley Authority bill, it declared, "affects one-third of the area of bonds will be to present them at the postoffice from which they were delivered or at one of the two special certification units set up by the Atlanta postoffice department.

In the event the bonds are presented at the postoffice, the regular carrier will identify the veteran and the bonds will be accepted. Checks will then be returned to the veteran within 24 to 48 hours, the postmaster said.

The two certification units have been established for the use of veterans who are members of veteran organizations and for veterans who are members of a labor organization.

The labor organization unit will be established in the Chamber of Commerce building and members of all organizations will be present to identify those presenting the bonds.

The labor organization unit will be established in the Labor temple and veterans who are members of labor organizations will find on hand officials of the unions and organizations to identify them.

Postmaster Livingston said yesterday that with a steady stream of applications, rather than "bunch" groupings it would be possible to return the checks to all veterans within 10 days. However, he estimated that several days more than that time would be required in sending out all checks.

The postoffice department will receive 28 cents on each letter. No stamps are used, the mail being franked, and the delivery cost is paid in a lump sum to the postoffice by the government.

Approximately 7,000 Fulton county veterans will receive their bonus bonds through other postoffices.

BONUS BONDS READY FOR DELIVERY TODAY
WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—A cargo of bonus "baby" bonds worth nearly $1,650,000,000 was trundled from 12 Federal Reserve Bank centers at midnight tonight, tagged for delivery to some 3,000,000 World War veterans.

By the end of the week, government experts predicted, millions of dollars in cash would be in the hands of those veterans throughout the country who seek immediate trade-in of their bonds for government checks.

When the whole job is done, 38,000,000 bonds will be in the hands of the nation's 3,500,000 veterans. The size of the individual payments will range from $60 to $1,500, officials estimate.

The government threw around the system of distribution all possible checks against fraud. Treasury and postoffice detectives were prepared to strike swiftly against anyone seeking to defraud veterans.

Heavy Penalties.
Misrepresentations made to gain possession of registered mail containing the bonds, they warned, would bring down on the heads of offenders five-year prison sentences, $2,000 fines or both. Even heavier penalties await any who attempt to cash the bonds.

The bonus payment has been heralded for months by the predictions of its advocates that a tremendous upsurge in business would come when the millions of dollars start flowing into the channels of trade.

The American Legion estimated that merchants and retailers would receive $623,615,793 from the payments.

President Roosevelt, over whose veto the immediate payment measure was passed by congress, last week took cognizance of the expected appearance in circulation of the bonus money. He urged co-operation in cashing the federal checks in order that "funds to be disbursed may begin to flow through the channels of trade without unnecessary delay."

Bonds Undistributed.
Harold W. Breining, assistant administrator of veterans affairs in charge of the bonus disbursement, predicted today that payments to only 300,000 or 400,000 applying veterans would remain undistributed by Monday's deadline. There are special cases, where incomplete records, inadequate application statements or loan complications have delayed the approval of applications.

"Our work is now current," Breining said.
Bonus applications still are coming in at the rate of about 50,000 a week, it is estimated, despite a gradual decline from the peak rush of business in the first week of February.

Although some government units urged retention of the bonds until their June 15, 1945, maturity date, at least two government agencies joined private business in seeking part of the money released by the bonus payment.

Officials of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation predicted the bonus distribution would speed up liquidation of government home loans made to a large number of veterans. The veterans' loans are part of more than $3,000,000,000 loaned to a million-odd home owners by the HOLC.

"Down Payment on Home."
The Federal Housing Administration made its bid with an estimate that the bonus check of most veterans would be enough for the 40 per cent "down payment on a new home" for the veteran and his family.

"Think of your homes first," the FHA suggested to veterans who plan to cash their bonds.

General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, has urged veterans to hold their bonds, which will draw interest at 3 per cent a year, "if there is no urgent condition which requires that the bonds be cashed."

"Keep in mind that the insurance represented in the adjusted service certificate no longer exists," he warned.

The Treasury Department also had an interest in veteran retention of the bonds until 1945. Each immediate cashing of the bonds adds to the treasury financing load.

FRENCHMEN RIOT.
PARIS, June 14.—(AP)—Disorders marked a ceremony by the nationalistic veterans' organization Croix De Feu today in honor of the Jewish World War dead at a Paris synagogue.

Pertinent Questions On Bonus Payment

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(UP)—Details of the bonus payment are explained in the following questions that might be asked by a veteran and answers based on information from the Treasury and Postoffice Departments.

Q. When do the bonus bonds and checks begin moving through the mails?
A. At 12:01 a. m., Monday, June 15.

Q. When will they be delivered?
A. It depends on where you live. Thousands of the registered mail parcels will be delivered to veterans' homes in the larger cities Monday evening. They are not released from post-offices in the 12 cities where Federal Reserve banks are situated until Monday morning, hence may not reach veterans in the smaller towns until later in the week.

Q. Can a veteran's wife or other relatives receive the registered letter?
A. No. It must be signed for personally by the veteran to whom it is addressed. He must be known to the mailman or able to identify himself satisfactorily.

Q. What will the registered letters contain?
A. Enough $50 government bonds to make up the amount of bonus due, with a treasury check for any odd amount less than $50, and a circular of instructions about what to do with the bonds.

Q. Can the treasury check be cashed right away?
A. Yes, it is like any other check.

Q. What about the veteran who is working the day and cannot be at home to meet the mailman at regular delivery time?
A. Postoffices in most large cities have arranged special deliveries after 6 p. m.

Q. What happens if the veteran isn't home even then?
A. The mailman will take the parcel back to the postoffice. He may try to deliver it again, or the veteran can call for it at the general delivery window and get it with proper identification.

Q. What is to be done with the bonds?
A. That's up to the veteran. He may keep them, cash all of them, or cash part of them and keep the rest.

Q. Is there any incentive for keeping them uncashed?
A. Yes. If held for a year or more, they will draw three per cent interest until 1945.

Q. If not cashed immediately, must they be held until 1945?
A. No. They can be cashed anytime between delivery and 1945, but will not bear any interest unless held for more than a year.

Q. How can a veteran go about cashing his bond immediately?
A. There are two ways. He may turn it in at his postoffice or send it direct to the treasury department, with proper certification.

Q. If he decides to cash it at his postoffice, what must he do?
A. Present his bond to the postmaster or other proper official—in some cities postoffices are establishing special offices in convenient places to handle the rush. He must either be known personally to the postal official or have somebody along who is known to identify him—his employer or an official of his veteran organization, for example.

Q. Should the bonds be signed before taking them to the postoffice?
A. No. They must be signed by the veteran in the presence of the proper official.

Q. Does the veteran get cash as soon as he turns in his bonds?
A. No. He gets a receipt for the bonds and will be mailed a check within a few days.

Q. Can the bonds be handled through banks?
A. Yes. Executive officers of banks are among those authorized by law to certify the bonds, which should be presented to them in the same manner as to postoffice officials.

Q. Will the bank immediately cash bonds certified there?
A. No. They must first be sent at the veteran's risk to the treasury department at Washington, which will send back a check. The veteran can send them himself, or his banks may send in the bonds and deposit the treasury check to his credit when it comes back.

Q. If there is anything the veteran doesn't understand about the system, can after reading the instructions that will be delivered to him along with his bonds and checks, how can he get the answer to his problem?
A. Ask his postmaster or an official of the American Legion or other veterans' organization.

Special 'Anti-Spy' Police Squads Guard Britain's Naval Base in East

England Fortifications in Singapore Harbor, To Cost $75,000,000, Are Nearing Completion; No Visitors Allowed on Islands.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, June 14.—(AP)—Special "anti-spy" police squads patrol approaches to the world's mightiest naval base here, Great Britain's chief citadel in the east.

British naval engineers and admiralty experts are now putting the final touches on the base, which will cost $75,000,000.

To the traveler coming to Singapore by steamer or train, nothing of the many fortifications is visible. For it is located 16 miles from the business center of Singapore city.

The visitor sees only innocent-looking islands robed in palm-trees, great stretches of open water, fishing-boats, Chinese junks, and an innocuous-looking shoreline. But behind those innocent palm trees, those rubber plantations, and that harmless-looking coast line are a series of 18-inch guns, underground batteries, airplane bases, graving-docks and naval refitment stations, which naval experts say greatly outdistance and formidable United States defensive works at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu.

However great his curiosity may be to visit or see something of this great secret fortress, the traveler is strictly forbidden by the British authorities from entering any part of the naval base. The approaches are guarded by stern-looking Sikh troops.

Periodically a "dry-dock" approach to the base is made by the British authorities as on their guard.

As the base neared completion, the police declared, the number of British troops increased and special "anti-spy" squads of police were formed to guard against them. Everyone of the 3,500 merchants and workmen engaged in the construction and operation of the naval base is kept under strict surveillance.

Attempts to bribe some of these men or other proper official—in some cities postoffices are establishing special offices in convenient places to handle the rush. He must either be known personally to the postal official or have somebody along who is known to identify him—his employer or an official of his veteran organization, for example.

Q. If there is anything the veteran doesn't understand about the system, can after reading the instructions that will be delivered to him along with his bonds and checks, how can he get the answer to his problem?

households, cry for liberty of contract, denounce the government for going into business and do everything they can, directly or indirectly, which will enable them to maintain the stronghold they held under Hoover and upon which Roosevelt has gradually but surely loosened their grasp."

The Cleveland convention, Norris contended, demonstrates "beyond a shadow of a doubt that the convention was in favor of Hoover and Hoover principles of government."

"At the smoke screen of a Cleveland gradually rises," he said, "the American people will realize that though the voice of that convention is Jacob's voice, the hands are the hands of Esau."

SWIMMING POOL FIGHT ENDS IN HOSPITAL TRIP

Struck on the head with a flashlight, Charles W. Huggins, of a Kirkwood avenue address, suffered a fractured skull early yesterday morning on grounds of the Log Cabin swimming pool, Boulder Crest drive, DeKalb county.

He was taken to Grady hospital. His condition last night was described as serious. According to police reports, Huggins, with several companions, sought admittance to the pool after it had been closed for the night.

An argument followed with Will Hightower, in charge of the grounds, during which he allegedly struck Huggins with the flashlight. No charges were placed against Hightower.

LINKS TOURNEY FOR SOUTHPAWS IS SLATED HERE

West End Plans Event for Left-handers-Within Next Two Weeks.

By Roy White.

A city-wide left-handers' golf tournament, open to every southpaw in the city and surrounding territory, will be played within the next few weeks on the West End course, it was learned Sunday afternoon.

Details of the tourney, sponsored by W. A. Lynn, the president, and E. T. Mize, the club professional, together with the club members, have not been completed, but the event is definitely set.

It was first planned to have a 36-hole medal play affair, but so many of the city's outstanding southpaws will be unable to participate in an all-day affair, it will likely be changed to a match play affair.

Atlanta's southpaws have not had a chance in many years to decide their champion and the West End invitation affair will start the tourney rolling, which may develop into a statewide affair later on.

There are many left-handed players in the city, but due to lack of tournament play, they have gone unnoticed. W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, and W. T. Hanson, assistant Tech High principal, are tough left-handed players, who have played in several tournaments recently.

Every club in the city has at least a half-dozen capable southpaws and the West End tourney should rank with the best in the city this year.

Jones, Medalist, Defeats Ozmer.

Weyman Jones, the medalist, and Charlie Ozmer played the feature match of the first round of the Georgia Tech tournament. Jones won the match 2-1.

The second round will open today and all matches will be completed by next Sunday night. Wallace Lindquist, the club professional, is in charge of the tourney.

The results: FIRST FLIGHT. Weyman Jones beat Charlie Ozmer, 2-1; 4-3; Luke Barnes beat R. Wilkinson, 2-1; 4-3; Ralph Barnes beat R. Wilkinson, 2-1; 4-3; Ralph Barnes beat R. Wilkinson, 2-1; 4-3.

SECOND FLIGHT. H. R. Schenk beat E. Lord, by default; R. Forrester beat L. Leland, by default; 1-0; 1-0; Manning beat R. L. Brown, 2-1; 4-3; George Smiley beat R. L. Brown, 2-1; 4-3; George Smiley beat R. L. Brown, 2-1; 4-3.

THIRD FLIGHT. H. R. Schenk beat E. Lord, by default; R. Forrester beat L. Leland, by default; 1-0; 1-0; Manning beat R. L. Brown, 2-1; 4-3; George Smiley beat R. L. Brown, 2-1; 4-3.

NAVY YARD, NEW YORK CITY, June 14.—It is raining outside. The rain is pattering down on the decks and awnings of the destroyers waiting here to steam out Monday with the units of fine young men from four universities, including Georgia Tech, on the annual training cruise.

On the dripping decks the disconsolate watches stand about in raincoats watching the water drip into the East river. They will be glad to get out to sea tomorrow on the long ride to the Canal Zone. Even New York is beginning to pall.

As for your old comrade he still is pop-eyed from Saturday afternoon spent at Princeton watching the annual meet in which Don Lash, of the University of Indiana, won the two-mile run and broke Paavo Nurmi's old record with his time of eight minutes and 58 and three-tenths seconds for the distance.

Our efforts at distance running in this nation have been rather sad. The two-mile mark is one that has baffled our runners for years. In fact, one must go back 30 years ago to George Bonhag to find a winner. And the pace has grown faster since then.

Paavo Nurmi was the tall, thin Finn who was running back in 1930 and thereabouts. He was supposed to live on a diet of fish and black bread and tea. In fact, it came to be thought at the time that if we could imprison our distance men and feed them for a few years on kippered herring, black bread and tea they might be able to run the two miles in good time.

A few of them tried the fish and black bread and reported they could not run at all. So, it became the general idea that we would have to wait until another Finn came along who had eaten enough Finnish food to set a new mark.

But this fellow Don Lash showed them.

A SPECTACULAR EVENT.

Down our way the two-mile run is no more exciting than a good fast game of checkers. The spectators wander about and steel themselves to wait about 10 minutes until the affair is all done. But this boy Lash had 20,000 people yelling after he had run a mile.

It was raining hard and the track was soft. But he went along at a pace which for the first mile and a half seemed killing.

His coach was yelling at him to go on in the last half and he did, having an idea in his rain-soaked and perspiring head that he might beat Nurmi's record.

Which is something the boys have been yearning to do. And beat it he did, sprinting the last quarter-mile.

When this boy Lash steps on it, runs become real drama which makes East Lynn seem dull.

I got down later and asked about the fish and black bread and tea. I thought that might explain it. But not so. Don Lash trains on Indiana food which is very good at that, except their bread in Indiana is almost as bad as the Finnish bread. But that is another story.

At any rate, for the first time in history we have a really good two-miler and one that can challenge the Finns.

THE TRACK CROWD.

The crowd at the track meet was amazing to one from South of the Smith and Wesson line where we can take our track or leave it alone, and mostly leave it alone as far as spectator interest is concerned.

But Princeton's Palmer stadium had at least 20,000 in it yesterday and maybe there were more. And it was the smallest crowd to witness the invitation meets, the rain which fell all the night before and all day cutting it down to twenty or twenty-five thousand. They had expected probably 50,000.

The answer is, of course, they have seen good track performances in the east. And the Princeton meet draws the great stars. There were Venzke and Cunningham and Bonthron in the mile yesterday. And our own "Spec" Towns, of Georgia, in the hurdles. But still it was astonishing to find two special trains running from New York and another from Philadelphia to the meet.

And thousands sitting there in a cold driving rain to watch the track stars go.

"Spec" Towns ran a very fine race. He had to come from behind. And there isn't much time in the 120 high hurdles for coming from behind. But Towns did it to win. In many respects I think it was his finest effort of the year despite the slower time caused by the sloppy track.

But Lash was the feature in smashing Nurmi's record on a wet track with wind and rain in the air. No one expected anyone to come close to the mark set by the Flying Finn.

Black bread, fish and tea as a diet are at a new low.

IN FOUR ROUNDS.

Before putting out to sea on this cruise with the naval R. O. T. C. team from Georgia Tech, which is competing with the teams from Yale, Harvard and Princeton, your correspondent wishes to get out on a limb with regard to the Louis-Schmeling fight.

I do not think Max Schmeling was a good fighter at any time in his career. He had courage. He has that now. He had a good right hand. It probably isn't as good today.

After all he was at his peak eight years ago. And eight years in the prize ring is eight years. He must be slower and less accurate. He won't be afraid. That is his best asset. He will go in fighting.

But unless Louis is a bubble, and I don't think he is, he should win from Schmeling by a knockout in four rounds or less. Schmeling is smart in the clinches and may last four. But if he goes past that it will surprise. In fact, I rather expect two rounds to be enough. Certainly not more than four. He will get $300,000 for it. So do not feel sorry for Max Schmeling. It's just a job of work for him. He will put on his work clothes and do the job.

LOUIS AND BRADDOCK.

The Louis-Braddock fight is already made, in the event Louis beats Schmeling. All reports to the contrary are just publicity.

Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, left this morning to select a training camp for the fight. He asked your correspondent to go along but the ship sails Monday and prevented.

And at Louis' camp his managers are willing to wager 5 to 3 Louis will be champion this fall.

So the fight is on. And they will not let Braddock wait another year. Because they figure to win and hold the title long enough to make a few millions.

TECH BOYS LIKED.

The Georgia Tech boys in the navy's R. O. T. C. have elicited much favorable comment from officials because of their appearance, intelligence and conduct. They have enjoyed New York as was fitting and proper. But they have reflected credit on themselves, the navy and their university. The same is true of the other units.

This cruise is one which the public should understand and appreciate. It teaches these boys to become reserve officers in time of national emergency. They work hard. They learn. They

CRIPPED WALS RUBBER TILT

Junie Barnes Blanks Tribe Until Ninth Inning To Win, 3 to 1.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 14.—(AP) Seven thousand fans saw the Nashville Vols, with a patched lineup, defeat the Memphis Chickies, 3-1, today in the rubber game of the series.

Junie Barnes pitched shutout ball for Nashville until the ninth inning. With what would have been Memphis' tying runs on first and third, the Vol southpaw struck out Pinch Hitter Willie Duke to end the game.

After several days' absence from the lineup, Poco Taitt again was in left field for the Vols. Catcher Peacock played second base and George Schreiner, shortstop, in place of Bill Rodda.

LEGION TAKEN TO TASK BY FOREIGN WAR VETS

City officials, civic and patriotic organizations and businessmen were scored for "thoughtlessness" in not properly observing Flag Day, by William I. Van Dyke, commander of the American Legion, last night.

Speaking in an address over radio station WGST during a program from 9:45 until 10 o'clock last night, Van Dyke roundly criticized the fact that the flag was not displayed on business houses, at city hall or on the pole of the American Legion house.

Other speakers on the program were C. A. Vandiver, past commander of the post, and Frank Greene, state commander of the organization.

PASTOR IS HONORED.

NASHVILLE, June 14.—(AP)—Dr. W. F. Powell, former pastor of Chattanooga's First Baptist church, was honored today with a special service commemorating his 15th anniversary as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Nashville.

BRITAIN IS PREPARING TO REMOVE SANCTIONS

Salesmen Are Gathering in Rome in Readiness to Start Taking Orders.

LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—Evangelical Great Britain will abandon sanctions in an effort to win Premier Mussolini over to the League of Nations and relieve Mediterranean tension, according to reports from Rome.

British salesmen are reported already arriving in Rome to renew their taking of orders when sanctions are dropped.

The British position in the Mediterranean is believed to be the prime reason for what laborers describe as the "buying off" of the Duce.

Only suggestion needed.

With conservative members openly boasting in common that the League invoked sanctions only after British insistence, it is felt little more than a British suggestion would be needed to induce all sanctions to capitulate to withdrawal.

In reality, the British general staff is today more worried about Egypt, Malta, the Suez Canal, and the whole British position in the Mediterranean than at any time in the past year, because whereas 12 months ago Italy's threat to that rich prize—Egypt and the Sudan—lay only on the Libyan side, today Mussolini has bracketed the territory with huge armies in Libya and on the west, and Eritrea and Ethiopia on the south and east.

From the sea, which guards the north and east entrances—the Italian fleet is mobilized for action, lined up within easy striking distance of a British armada—daily growing more restless and uneasy under the nearly year-long vigil of inactivity in the eastern Mediterranean—off Egypt's shores.

With Palestine in a ferment of revolt, and Egypt seething with discontent, the British are far from being in a comfortable position in the vast inner sea they have dominated for two centuries, and control of which is so vital to their link to empire.

From one end of the Mediterranean to the other, wherever British sailors, soldiers, airmen or civilians gather, the wildest speculation about Musso-

Unique Revival Planned By Church in East Point

Revival services aimed at increasing interest of church membership in Christian service will begin this morning at the First Baptist church, East Point. A unique feature will be that no effort will be directed at the "unsaved."

Two services will be held daily through Thursday night. Services for boys and girls between 3 and 16 years of age will be held from 9 o'clock until 11 o'clock in the morning, with Mrs. J. C. Groover in general charge.

The programs at night will be held at 7:30 o'clock, and will be divided into classes for men, women and young people. Many prominent Baptist ministers will preach during the services. The Rev. W. A. Duncan, pastor, is in charge of the general arrangements.

PARTY FIGHT FEARED IN RACE IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, June 14.—(AP)—A long three-sided fight for the democratic nomination for governor with Indiana's two United States senators and Governor Paul V. McNutt each supporting a different candidate will reach its climax here Tuesday when nominations for all state offices will be made in the biennial state convention.

National democratic leaders kept a close watch on the proceedings for fear party harmony might be disrupted.

Weight of the state administration has been thrown behind the candidacy of M. Clifford Townsend, present lieutenant-governor. U. S. Senator Frederick Van Nuys is openly backing E. Kirk McKinney, former head of the Home Owners Loan Corporation in Indiana, while Senator Sherman Minton is supporting Elmer E. Greenlee.

Reports from Washington this week were that James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, is interesting himself in the Indiana fight for fear a serious split might result in loss of some congressional seats.

lini's future plans have long been repeated.

In brief, the story going the rounds is that instead of Ethiopia, Egypt was Mussolini's real goal in the fall of 1935, and that the thrust toward the land of the pharaohs has only been temporarily postponed because of Britain's surprise action in jumping its fleet into Alexandria a few hours before the Italian fleet was ready to strike.

JONES PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROISM OF PILOT

Heroic Accomplishments of Flyer Fail To Save His Life.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 14.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, rested today from the shock of a dive to safety in a burning airplane after paying glowing tribute to the heroism of Pilot Eugene Schacher, victim of the plane.

Schacher was fatally burned in helping to land a plane bearing Jones, former Governor and Mrs. W. P. Hobby and John Toomey near Ferris, Texas, last Friday.

In a signed statement addressed to Eugene Schacher, the RFC chairman lauded the 32-year-old pilot.

"I thought you would live," the tribute read, "you had such determination, such courage, such endurance and self-control under the most terrifying circumstances and such great physical pain."

"You stuck to your post in a veritable furnace, with the white heat literally burning the clothes off your body. You did this notwithstanding Pilot Ed Heffley begged you to leave the pit to him."

After describing the heroic accomplishment of Schacher and Heffley in landing the burning plane safely, Jones said:

"You fortitude under the greatest imaginable suffering was an inspiration and a lesson. You never lost your smile during the terrible hours that followed for you. Such courage, such fortitude, such endurance, it has never been my privilege to witness."

"You are up there, looking upon your family, your devoted wife and two loving children, one but three weeks old. Your soul is as white and as clean as the clouds through which it soars, and I pray God for the knowledge to understand for what purpose He saved my life by sacrificing yours."

Best Dog Tonic Said Sulphur and Molasses

Sulphur and Molasses Is Tonic For Dogs, Say Luther Connally

Our grandmothers had the right idea, says Luther Connally, Atlanta fireman, who is shown here administering a spring dose of sulphur and molasses to a dog. The simple remedies of the old days cannot be ignored by man or beast, says Connally, who describes himself as a practical nurse for dogs. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Sulphur and Molasses Is Tonic For Dogs, Say Luther Connally

Rear a dog as your grandmother reared her children, says Luther Connally, and you will have a healthy animal that will cause little worry.

Luther Connally is an Atlanta fireman, son of the retired Assistant Chief Charles P. Connally Sr. of the Atlanta police department, and a cousin of the late Joe Brown Connally, who was one of Atlanta's better-known sportsmen.

Around his house at 735 Olympian drive, S. W., Connally has constructed kennels where he devotes his idle time away from No. 5 Engine House, breeding and rearing English bulldogs, American bull terriers, commonly known as pit bulls, and Boston terriers.

"A dog is like a human being," Connally tells his visitors, as he emphasizes the wisdom of the old maxim about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure.

Simple Remedies.

Connally's name is also becoming more and more well-known among dog fanciers of Atlanta as time and again he proves that his simple home remedies are the stuff, even though they may not be just what the veterinarian ordered.

Connally has taken some forlorn wrecks of dogs into his backyard kennels and has restored them to healthy activity. Slowly he is earning a reputation as the last hope for a dog before it is chloroformed, but Connally dodges discussion of the efficacy of his cures and operations in competition with Atlanta's veterinarians.

"Atlanta has 20 first-class vets," Connally remarked yesterday. "They have earned their degrees in a difficult course of study. They have built hospitals and their profession is learned and more about dogs every day. I am not a veterinarian, I'm just a sort of practical nurse."

Regular Examinations.

"Dog fanciers could save themselves money and their dogs untold suffering if they would visit veterinarians regularly for an examination of their animals, as some wise people visit doctors for a periodic physical examination. Most people wait until the dog is so far gone, however, that it is impossible for anyone to do anything for the afflicted animal."

Never Without Dogs.

Connally became a lover of animals during his boyhood. His cousin, Joe Brown Connally, noticed how he was attracted to the dogs, guinea pigs, game cocks, pigeons and horses at "The Homestead," the home of the late Dr. E. L. Connally on Ashby street, in West End. Joe Brown gave Luther his first litter of puppies and since then, Luther has never been without dogs.

He has runways, home-made exercising machines for his three favorite breeds. The idle hours that he spends at Engine House No. 5 at the head of the Peters Street viaduct are devoted to solving the problems of distressed dogs brought to him from over Atlanta and with the mystery of the dog's symptoms puzzled out. Connally goes home to start his treatment.

He seldom fails.

"I'm just a practical nurse," he says.

viewpoint. If I can find a way to help in the matter I shall certainly do so. Have you considered motion for rehearing?" the league quoted the senator as replying.

PHILADELPHIA PLANS FOR DEMOCRATIC MEET

Traditional Seat of G. O. P. Preparing to Greet New Dealers.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—(AP)—This traditional seat of republicanism is donning its best "bib and tucker" to welcome the 16th national convention next week.

With various school and college commencement activities in the building concluded today, an army of workmen will converge upon Convention hall tomorrow to speed final construction and renovation tasks for the assembly.

As a principal side-light, one of the biggest exhibitions ever held in the city—a demonstration of the work of various governmental agencies—is being set up in the commercial museum, adjoining the auditorium.

Elaborate traffic and transportation arrangements have been made, including the construction of a new trunk lane for vehicle traffic to West Philadelphia. It will speed up connections with the vast building, standing "off the beaten path" of Philadelphia's thoroughfares.

In another sector of the city—the north-western section—Abe throw up special seating accommodations for the baseball park of the Philadelphia national league team. Here two top-flight boxing heavyweights, Al Epstein and Leroy Haynes, will meet on Monday night, June 22, the eve of the convention.

Davis Wilson has received acceptance from governors of more than two dozen states to attend his dinner and reception in their honor on Monday night. The reception will be held in Independence hall.

Tuesday night will be filled with music, as Paul Whiteman's band, combined with the Philadelphia orchestra, presents a concert in Robin Hood dell, in verdant Fairmount park.

A "mardi gras," along the spacious walkway will enliven the second night of the convention. It will include a special mummer's parade.

As a climax to convention week, the democrats will hold a mass meeting at Franklin Field, on Saturday night, June 27, when they expect President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner to accept their renominations.

MRS. JOSEPHINE FORBES SUCCUMBS IN TAMPA

Mrs. Josephine W. Forbes, widow of a Spanish-American War veteran and a former resident of Atlanta for many years, died yesterday at her home in Tampa, Fla., at the age of 84.

She was a native of Missouri and had resided here for about eight years before moving to Tampa.

The body will arrive here tomorrow for funeral services to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon with the Rev. W. Lee Cutts officiating.

Burial will be in the Manistota National cemetery with members of Lebanon chapter, No. 105, Order of the Eastern Star, in charge of the grave-side rites.

Richard Dix Is Star In Feature at Capitol

The stirring saga of the California gold rush serves as the locale of a thrilling picture, entitled "Yellow Dust," which opened yesterday at the Capitol theater with Richard Dix in the leading role.

This sort of film seems to be made to order for Dix and he is at his best in the current attraction. The support is furnished by Lella Hyams, who is cast as a singer who risks her reputation and even her life to win love.

Dix has the part of a young prospector, Jessie Ralph scores in a character portrayal of Miss Hyams' mother, and Andy Clyde contributes the comedy relief.

"Sirens in Satin" is the stage show and provides a sophisticated bit of pleasing entertainment. Among the headlines of the cast are Comer and Parks, a singing and dancing comedy routine; Billie Beard, magician; Shannon Stanley, acrobatic dancer; the Faye Sisters, dancers; Langdon and Storey, dance team, and the Gabby Brothers, comedy juggling team.

The Club Royal orchestra, augmented by Enrico Leide and His Capitolians, and Bob Hess at the organ contribute the music of a well-balanced program.

King for a Day

He's the greatest "unsung hero" the world has ever known. He's won more battles and carries more scars than a veteran of the wars.

Outside . . . the world knows him as a two fisted fighter . . . bucking the powers of business . . . winning maybe . . . losing maybe . . . but always in the thick of the fray.

But at home . . . his tenderness enfolds you . . . protects you . . . stands like a shield between you and the hurts of the world. And though sometimes, in his bewilderment at youth of today, he seems a little unreasonable . . . on this you can bet your bottom dollar . . . the mainspring of his life is YOUR happiness.

Sunday is HIS day. Make it a day he'll long remember. Let him undo his collar . . . spill ashes on the best rug . . . prop his feet on the new chair . . .

And let him know that you think he's just about the swellest Dad ANYBODY ever had.

Sally Forth Soliloquizes Today Over This and That Social Chatter

By Sally Forth.

THE LITTLE white road off of Northside drive provides the setting for the story revolving around Selma Wright, Sarah Feeney, Jack Chambers and Ewing Miles. They were motoring on the road which is a favorite drive with the youngsters when Selma and Sarah decided to wade in the brook that purrs through that section of Atlanta.

Jack and Ewing sat in the car by the roadside awaiting their return and when they decided the girls had been gone sufficiently long enough to have their fill of wading, the boys called them. No answer. Silence reigned supreme. Jack and Ewing searched everywhere for the girls without avail.

In the meantime Selma and Sarah decided to play a joke on the boys and hide. They reckoned without their hosts. Jack and Ewing drove away from the scene with the shoes and stockings belonging to the girls. Selma and Sarah had to walk barefoot to Tuxedo road before some kind-hearted lady invited them into her automobile and drove them home.

LITTLE Cora Fleming Player was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Player at St. Joseph's infirmary. She is the namesake of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, and the niece of Anne Wynn and Adelaide Fleming. Cora's head is covered with black ringlets and she is, according to her adoring aunts, "the cutest and prettiest baby" ever to be born in Atlanta. Her mother is the former Miriam Fleming, whose marriage to Frank Player was one of the outstanding social events of more than a year ago. It will be recalled that pink and blue hydrangeas featured the exquisite decorations at the wedding.

Little Cora's maternal grandfather is Malcolm Fleming, well-known Atlanta. She is the paternal granddaughter of Mrs. Frank Player Sr., and niece of Milton and Bobby Player. She claims two great-grandmothers in Mrs.

J. O. Wynn, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Anna Meggs Fleming, of Seattle, Wash. Miriam and Frank are numbered among the prominent and popular members of the younger married set of society, and their infant daughter will inherit much of the interest and love of her parents' friends.

Cora's arrival yesterday occasioned the ringing of hundreds of telephones to convey the announcement of her birth to friends. Junior Leaguers were particularly interested in her birth, because little Cora's mother belongs to the Atlanta League. Miriam also is a member of the Peachtree Garden Club.

"KILLING two birds with one stone" was certainly pressed into service recently by two lovely members of the young set. When Mrs. William McDougall entertained at a beautiful tea on Friday for Mrs. Rufus Thayer two of the guests were Mrs. Ralph Paris and Margaret Stovall.

In the midst of the tea two made a hurried and unexpected exit, making apologies as they sped away. The tea progressed merrily along and when good-byes were being said by the remaining guests who should the charming hosts see but Mrs. Paris and Margaret returning! Explanations were then in order. It was revealed by the two guests that the tea hour was the same as that of the marriage of Rosa Shuey and Parker Day taking place at the Druid Hills Methodist church. Invited to both affairs they "signed in" so to speak at the tea, then dashed to the wedding, and then returned to the tea for a lingering visit and good-bye.

Incidentally, the former Miss Shuey is a sister of John Shuey of Miami, whose wife, the former Edith Carpenter, is a life-long friend of Mrs. Paris and Margaret Stovall.

Kennesaw Club Meets.

Thirty varieties of flowers can be grown this summer from seed planted now, according to Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crow, who lectured to members of the Kennesaw Home and Garden Club at a recent luncheon meeting held at Sears-Robuck on Friday. She gave some interesting rules for flower arrangements. Attending the meeting were Misses Joan Crawford, Edna Hunt, Nona Richards, Reida Whitney, Mabel Sampson, Mesdames M. M. Neel, E. Stewart, S. A. Jacobs, Rose Wiegley, J. W. Wilson, E. M. Evans, Henry Ashmead, J. A. Sanderson, A. E. Sanderson, H. S. Hill, W. T. Hollingsworth, J. C. Fletcher, William Jackson, LeGrand Richards, R. C. Scott, J. J. Betts, B. R. Martin, E. E. Mitchell, W. B. Blankenship, E. L. Powell, L. Lipschutz and E. Stewart.

Charter Revived.

Mrs. Moreland Spear, regent of the Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., announces that the charter of the chapter will be revived at the meeting this afternoon instead of revised as was previously announced.

Miss Vander Horck Will Attend Tri-Delta Conclave Weds Mr. Haygood

The interest of a wide circle of Atlanta friends centers in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Vander Horck, of Havre, Mont., of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Viola Vander Horck, of Chicago and Atlanta. The ceremony took place June 12 at Thorndike Hill Memorial chapel, at the University of Chicago, with Rev. Forrest Weller, of the Chicago University, officiating. James Walsh, of Valparaiso, Ga., played several musical selections.

Miss Joan Greene, of Helena, Mont., was the bride's only attendant and Marshall E. Gilchrist, of Newburyport, Mass., and Oakland, Cal., acted as the groom's best man.

The bride was educated at the Northern Montana College, in coming to the University of Chicago, where she is research assistant in the department of social anthropology.

Mr. Haygood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Haygood, of Atlanta, and his only brother is Thomas Haygood, a student at the University of Chicago. His mother is the former Miss Edith Monroe Converse, of Valdosta, Ga.

The groom is a graduate of Emory University, where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now a student in the law school of the University of Chicago, where he is completing his course for the doctor of philosophy degree.

Mr. Haygood and his bride will be at home at 5723 Dorchester avenue, Chicago, after a short trip to the Michigan woods.

Needlework Guild Plans Motordance.

Mrs. E. J. Walton, president of the Atlanta branch, Needlework Guild of America, announces the second of a series of motordances which members will visit Atlanta social agencies. Members having cars and others interested are requested to meet Thursday morning at 8-30 o'clock at the Sheltering Arms Association, 214 Baker street.

Among the agencies to be visited are the Hillside Cottages, Scottish Rite hospital, Cate City, Xavier, Deatur Children's Home and others. Information may be obtained from Mrs. Walton, Dearborn 0308-J.

Miss Williamson Weds Mr. Owens.

ROCHELLE, Ga., June 14.—Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Williamson, of Pennington, formerly of Cordele, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lillian Estelle, to Charles Alton Owens, of Rochelle, which took place on June 14 in the study of the First Baptist church of Fitzgerald. Rev. J. F. Singleton officiated.

The bride was attired in a chic model of dusky pink crepe with white accessories. She is a graduate of Cordele High school and later attended Georgia Military College at Athens and Lincoln Memorial Institute at Harrogate, Tenn.

Mr. Owens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Owens. He attended Georgia Military College at Athens and Locust Grove Institute. He is now connected with the Standard Oil Company at Rochelle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Owens will reside on South Ashley street after June 15.

Miss Keaton Weds J. W. Reynolds Jr.

ALBANY, Ga., June 14.—The marriage of Miss Eula Jones Keaton and John William Reynolds Jr. was solemnized at noon Saturday in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Harry S. Cober, rector, officiating in the presence of a gathering of friends and relatives.

Mrs. A. H. Thompson, organist, rendered a beautiful musical program. Ushers were Jackie Griffin, Walter Jones and John O. Huckabee.

The bride entered with her father, Dr. John Cox Keaton, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Jimmie Reynolds. She wore a Milgram model of navy blue tulle, with white accessories. The wide ribbon and outlined the flap pockets and sides of the redingote. The bride's small hat of navy blue satin straw featured a plumed halo of blue grosgrain ribbon and was tied at the back of the head with narrow ribbon. Navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and lilacs of the valley completed the ensemble.

After the ceremony Mr. Reynolds and his bride left by automobile for a wedding trip to North Carolina and on their return they will be at 504 Pine avenue.

Mrs. John Cox Keaton, mother of the bride, was gown in navy blue tulle, with white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. John William Reynolds, the groom's mother, wore navy blue tulle, with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Miss Florrie Sisson, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Sisson, will attend the Delta Delta convention at Colorado Springs on June 28. She is vice president of the Alpha Epsilon chapter of the national social sorority at Brenau college in Gainesville. Photo by Elliott Studio.

Miss Jane Carter Weds Mr. Graves

WESTMINSTER, S. C., June 14.—Dr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Morgan announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Jane Carter, to Dewey A. Graves, of Chattanooga, Tenn., at their home, Chauga Heights, Westminster, on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Graves will spend several weeks in Vermont on a motor trip, after which they will reside on Missionary Ridge, in Chattanooga.

Mrs. Graves is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Carter, of Gainesville, Ga., and is a graduate of Brenau College and attended the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. She was business secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in Birmingham, Ala., for a number of years.

For the past several months she has been dietitian at Emory University. Her sisters are Mrs. Edgar L. Morgan, who with her husband, Dr. Morgan, was a missionary in China for a good many years and who are now in America on furlough; Mrs. S. Emmet Stephens, also a missionary and now in Tsingtau, China; Mrs. W. F. Tanner, of Brownsville, Texas; Mrs. Harriet H. Tanner, of Palatka, Fla. Her brothers are Frank Carter and Ralph Carter, of Walhalla, S. C., and Major John C. Carter, of Fort Benning, Ga. Mr. Graves is a prominent businessman of Chattanooga, Tenn., where he was superintendent of city schools for a number of years. He is an active member of the civic clubs of Chattanooga and is president of the Southern Auto Supply Company, with offices in Johnson City, Tenn., and Chattanooga.

Spread Motif New... Is Fun To Do

PATTERN 5637

Lilacs and wild roses in French knots, lacy daisy and single stitch—an effective way of adding color and design to an otherwise plain bedspread. So easy to do, the charming result is well worth the time spent on a bit of simple embroidery. There's a bolster motif included, or the same motif can be used to make a matching scarf.

In pattern 5637 you will find a transfer pattern of one large spray 18x20 1-2 inches; two and two reverse sprays 3 1-4 x 6 1-4 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all the needlework requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Mrs. Roberts Entertains Garden Division.

Mrs. Charles R. Roberts was hostess recently to the garden group of the Garden Hills Woman's Club at her home on Woodward way. Mrs. Lewis Brannon, the chairman, presided. The meeting was held in the tea house in Mrs. Roberts' beautiful garden. Mrs. Brannon discussed plans for a benefit bridge to be given by the garden division in October. Mrs. W. O. Pierce, beautification chairman, gave her report of planting shrubs and flowers in Sunnyside Park. Motion was made to photograph the bronze plaque in Sunnyside Park for scrapbooks.

Mrs. E. L. Harling gave an interesting talk on "Scrapbooks." Mrs. Harling requested that all garden clubs co-operate with her in a movement to make scrapbooks for the young people of the rural districts. Mrs. W. T. Speed volunteered to make one for Chatham county. Mrs. Perry Harrison was appointed scrapbook chairman. A buffet luncheon was served, tables being set on the porch where everyone enjoyed a view of Mrs. Roberts' artistic gardens. The garden group meets next at the summer home of Mrs. R. J. Cantwell at Nisky Lake.

Atlanta Bride Honored in Marietta

MARIETTA, Ga., June 14.—Mrs. W. E. Schilling entertained at a brilliant reception Thursday at the Marietta Golf Club complimentary to her daughter, Mrs. Charles Schilling, of Atlanta, who was before her marriage on May 27, Miss Elizabeth Good, of Cedartown. Pottery vases on the columns of the porch held blue larkspur, marigolds and red bergamot. In the living room the table was centered with a blue pottery vase of the larkspur and marigolds. The mantel in the reception room was banked with lace and white flowers and held baskets of regal lilacs and Queen Anne's lace.

Centering the table was the wedding cake of three tiers, embossed with white roses, hearts and garlands of coral blossoms. Crystal vases held pink roses and crystal candlesticks were used for the tapers. Crystal cornucopia-shaped holders held mints and nuts. The ballroom mantel was banked with the lace vine and was centered with a mound of pink gladioli. Presiding at the punch bowl were Misses Connie Schilling and Suzanne Howell.

Receiving with Mrs. Schilling were the honoree and her grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Chapman, of Cedartown. The honoree was lovely in her "second" gown of mellowed taffeta, the gown having been worn by seven brides of her family on her maternal side. The Parisian gown, made empire style, was hand-embroidered in colors around the neckline of the high waist. The sleeves were short and the full skirt was adorned with hand-embroidered from knee length to the short train. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames J. M. Fowler, W. D. Neal, D. R. Little, Marion Dobbs, Norman Collins, C. E. Wood, W. M. Reynolds, J. Nelson, R. D. Claiborne, Henry Meiner, H. E. Hagood, R. B. Ramsey, Misses Badge Schilling, Louise Schilling, Betty Schilling, Clara Bell Huffman, Elizabeth Williamson, Jennie Little, Agnes Orr, Bunney Joe Abbott, Jessie Lee Lynn, Martha Cox and Hazel Ward.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Martha Brown, of Cartersville; Mesdames J. R. Henderson, Brooks Lovelace, H. B. Jones, H. B. Jones and Clarence Schilling, of Atlanta; Miss Louise Schilling, of Pascagoula, Miss, and Mrs. S. S. Barklow, of Franklin, Ohio.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

FORT WORTH, Texas (Friday).—Such a changeable day! Bright sun this morning, and I never saw a prettier sight than the stadium in the Dallas fair grounds. Dresses and hats and every color we may see anywhere in summer. However, here we had parades of varied hue to make the whole stadium look more like a garden of flowers in full bloom.

One incident marred the morning for me. Out in the heat stood detachments from the army, the navy and the marine corps. Suddenly I saw a boy being almost carried out to a car on the sidelines by two of his comrades. I knew how badly he would feel at dropping out, but I was even more afraid he might be really ill. My husband stopped long enough on the way out to ascertain that he was feeling better.

After lunch we started out for Fort Worth. Soon the clouds began to gather and then we had wind and quite a heavy rain. This was a great disappointment to many people, I know, but throughs still lined the sidewalks and cheered the President. I only hope no one is the worse tomorrow for a drenching. At least it is delightfully cool now.

We are about to go out and spend the night with our son Elliott and his wife and baby. It is rather pleasant to have a family dotted around in various places, for one always has an added interest in the locality where a child is living.

In this case, I have seen Elliott's home before, but his father has never been here and I know Elliott will want to show him everything. Since I was here last autumn he has made certain improvements—and then grandchildren do grow so rapidly I expect I will hardly know Chandler.

Every one seems to think that my husband will be too tired to really enjoy this short interlude in an official trip, but I think he really thrives on the feeling that he is seeing an improvement in conditions wherever we go. He certainly shows no sign of fatigue.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

POST-PREGNANCY EXERCISES.

Modern mothers look young enough to be the sisters of their 'teen-age daughters. The wise mother knows the value of regular physical post pregnancy exercises to bring figure and health back to normal.

Your figure is at a critical period following pregnancy, and a good time to take advantage of the opportunity to acquire—if you let it—its usual accumulation of fat, such as occurs during this time, may tend to become a permanent unless you take steps to prevent it.

Following a brief period of rest, you should adopt a systematic program for losing that extra 25 or 30 pounds and for toning up flabby muscles. If you do nothing toward strengthening flabby abdominal muscles in the belief that nature will take care of everything in due time, you're going to lose your figure.

Of course, you must be guided by your doctor as to beginning exercise, but as a general rule, two weeks after the baby's arrival is about soon for simple abdominal exercises.

For all beginning exercises, the position is, flat on the back, without pillow, legs together, arms at sides. Each movement should be performed slowly, without strain but with effort.

Exercise 1. Cross the arms over the chest. Raise head and shoulders just enough to clear bed. Repeat six to eight times, resting between movements.

Exercise 2. Knees bent, feet resting on bed. Contract and release the abdominal muscles by drawing the small of the back down to touch the bed. Repeat slowly and rhythmically ten times. This exercise is independent of breathing.

Exercise 3. This exercise can be started during the latter part of the second week. Resting the weight on the shoulders and the soles of the feet, raise abdomen from bed, pushing upward as high as possible. Lower. Repeat five times, later ten.

Further exercises are suggested for the third week.

Exercise 1. Raise one leg from the bed, bending knee until the thigh touches the abdomen. Lower. Repeat three to six times with alternate legs.

Exercise 2. Lying on right side, legs stretched downward. Raise top leg toward ceiling one to two feet. Lower. Repeat three times slowly and with strain; turn on the left side and perform with the other leg.

Exercise 3. Lying face down on bed, holding on to sides of mattress with each hand. Bend knees alternately as if trying to kick the buttocks. Repeat briskly eight to ten times.

After the third week a proper amount of general exercise will help to strengthen the abdominal muscles. As the end of six weeks, the abdominal exercises can be increased and at the end of the third month a general set of abdominal exercises will help wonderfully in restoring tone.

Be sure to consult your doctor before taking a single exercise, no matter how simple it may be. Post-pregnancy exercises are an invaluable part of the modern mother's figure program.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion and Greatest Card Analyst.

REBIDS BY OPENING NO-TRUMP

If, over an opening no-trump by you, your partner raises to two no-trump, he has shown you a holding of about one and one-half honor tricks.

As opening hand, you now should pass only if your hand contains the minimum of four honor tricks (or three and one-half honor tricks).

If you hold four plus honor tricks, or more, or only four honor tricks, but seven or eight honor cards, you should proceed to three no-trump.

With a biddable four-card major suit included in your no-trump requirement, you may show this suit after a raise to two no-trump unless your hand is a minimum.

When your partner raises to three no-trump, in every case the opening hand should pass.

A Bad Double.
Any bid that can lose 1,000 points and gain only 100 or 200 is, per se, a bad bid. In every game there arises this question of playing with or against the "percentages." In poker it obviously is foolish to risk $5 when only $1 may be won, and even in contract, which is in no sense a gambling game, the clever player refuses to risk much to gain little.

In doubling a slam contract the utmost care must be taken to make sure that the double will not defeat its own purpose; in other words, that it will not guide declarer to the line of play that will fulfill his contract. That was the fate of West's double in the following hand.

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K Q 10 8 4
♥ J 9 8

The bidding:
North East South West
1spade Pass 2clubs Pass
3clubs Pass 3spades Pass
4spades Pass 5diamonds Pass
6clubs Pass Pass Double
Redouble Pass Pass Pass

[North-South were not using asking bids.]

West decided that the safest opening was a diamond, so he led the eight. Declarer allowed this to ride to his own tenace. East put up the queen and declarer's king won. A low club was led to dummy's queen, and declarer carefully noted the fall of East's ten. The penalty double from West persuaded him to believe that the ten was blank and, therefore, he returned to his hand with the spade ace and led the nine of clubs through West. The latter ducked, and so did dummy. Another club was led to dummy's ace, and now declarer was faced with the problem of re-entering his hand to draw the last trump. Of one thing he felt positive: West must have the heart ace for his double. He was not nearly so certain that another spade led to the jack would go unruined by West. So he led a heart and West was on lead with the ace. In desperation he laid down the heart queen, but declarer ruffed, drew the last trump, and claimed the balance. The double certainly had been helpful!

TODAY'S QUESTION.
Question: When the opponents have a total of five cards in a suit, what are the chances that they will be divided 3 and 2?
Answer: They will be divided 3 and 2 68 times in 100.

Anderson-E'Dalgo.
FORSYTH, Ga., June 14.—The marriage of Miss Margaret Anderson to John C. E'Dalgo took place here Sunday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Anderson, Rev. H. D. Warner, pastor of the First Baptist church of Forsyth, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride, entering with her father, who gave her in marriage, was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Frank E'Dalgo. She was lovely in a dress of navy sheer made with short jacket, and with hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of pink roses and valley lilies. The bride, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Anderson, received her education at Bessie Tift College and the University of Georgia. For several years she has been a beloved member of the faculty of the Forsyth grammar school, and most active in the church circles of the community. Mr. E'Dalgo, after completing his high school studies, attended Gwynn

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Gail Patrick)

A Deodorant That Will Keep You Sweet

BY MIGNON
Of course if you are in a hot climate, where it is damp and you should perspire, it's not a good idea to try to stop it entirely. It is not pleasant to have your back perspire, especially when you are wearing a thin delicate gown, but in warm weather that will happen to most of us. If it's possible you should have a thin yoke put in the back of summer dresses. Even chiffon ones will help, and they will absorb the perspiration before it stains the dress.

But you CAN prevent to a great extent, under normal perspiration, by using a deodorant. It is not best to use anything too strong, or you will regret it. And whatever you do, don't use any kind of liquid deodorant, immediately after shaving. You should wait at least twenty-four hours so that the skin will not be irritated.

If you wish to know the name of the product mentioned in this article, and where it may be purchased, call MIGNON at The Constitution. Do not write unless you live outside the city, in which event, be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Let Your Stars Guide You"

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON, Foremost American Astrologer.

"In the elder days of art, builders wrought with greatest care The unseen and hidden part, for the gods see everywhere."

DEAN RAIMUNDO DE OVIES.

Dean Raimundo de Ovies, one of Atlanta's and the south's best known and most beloved ecclesiastics, dean of the Cathedral of St. Philip, and a contributor to the Atlanta Constitution, is a strong, well-placed and well-appearing man. He is a native of Spain, and his favor to public life and his position in the church and state.

The sun's house position bestows vitality, energy and force, independence and enthusiasm. The sun-Saturn position gives perseverance, tact and self-control. Solid force is imparted to the character, with organizing talent, and the ability to merit and receive high honors.

The Capricorn native strives for the highest; he hates dishonesty and meanness. The Capricorn path is to royal, homeward one to wisdom, love and power.

The majority of planets in fixed signs, well aspected, gives him the ability to accomplish whatever he sets out to do. Dean D. Ovies will always hold his well-earned place in the sun.

You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best known astrologers. Mrs. Pierson does not profess the ability to tell fortunes, to foretell the future, or to solve personal problems, but she can give you a complete and accurate rendition of the position of the sun and planets at the time of your birth, carefully worked out, according to the strict rules of astrology. All you have to do is fill in the coupon below enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin, to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the sun at the time of your birth, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpretations, which will be published in The Atlanta Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology. When you have checked each of your numbers your forecast will be complete.

Planetary Interpretations.
Below are planetary indications, according to the rules of astrology, one of which may apply to your forecast. Every day these interesting interpretations will be published, descriptive of the influence of the planets at the time of your birth. Your astrological forecast includes a sun-chart and planetary interpretations, designated by numbers on your sun-chart. Watch carefully day by day for your numbers.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Somebody remarks that seldom, if ever, does a man wait for a divorce from his wife unless there is another woman in the picture. He will stay married to a scolding Xanthippe, a doveland housekeeper, a poor cook, a lapping nitwit, an extravagant wife, a hen-pecking wife. He will stick to manna until the end of time, if no other woman enters the picture and persuades him he wants to marry her. If, and when, she does he calls for the decree and will go anywhere, pay anything to get it quickly. Thought for the welfare of his family fades out. The good opinion of friends and associates is forfeited without the quiver of an eyelid. Ballast that he has clung to, through the journey is recklessly thrown overboard. He is all for getting out so he can get in again.

This being the case, here is the cue to old wives and new. Please your men so well that they won't seek and find. Please them so well that the sirens who are seeking whom they may devour mark them off the list of dissatisfied husbands that are good game. But how? Ask the wives old and new. There's just one way. Give them the "staples" that all men want and study the individual husband to see what "fancies" he prefers. These are the staples: understanding, friendship, pleasant companionship; physical comforts and plenty of approbation. Papa isn't tempted to go hunting for food, fun, companionship or compliments if he finds them under his own roof. Yet man-like, he believes these are his due and he means to have them at home, or abroad.

He isn't conscientious about balancing the marriage book. When he does he writes love and support on his side of the ledger and if mama hasn't been pleasant, looked pretty, provided him with a comfortable place to read and sleep, provided him with good food and plenty of it, her side of the ledger shows up in the red, for the average husband counts love and support 100 per cent perfection on his part and for this he expects a large contribution from his partner.

He argues that he must work hard to chase and catch dollars during the day. He's the bread winner. The competitors are contentions. The customers are critical. When he comes home he wants a change, relaxation, conversation that doesn't require concentration. For problems and perplexities he would exchange entertainment and diversion.

Why, when he has crammed a sandwich and gulped a glass of milk for lunch should he not come home to a good dinner with a tiny woman presiding at the head of the table? Why, when he is so tired, should he not be greeted with a warm smile and a glass of beer? Why, when he is so tired, should he not be greeted with a warm smile and a glass of beer? Why, when he is so tired, should he not be greeted with a warm smile and a glass of beer?

The smaller he is in the world of affairs, the more dependent he is upon being made to feel sizable when he arrives at his castle. He has taken the rap at the office, had his ego punctured by a woman's defiance. The wife must puff him up and re-establish his self-esteem, pat him on the back and tell him that to her, at least he is a hero.

These are the "staples" that every husband requires if he is to be contented with his mama and his home. The "fancies" vary with the individual. One likes to be petted and pampered, another let alone. One likes to spill his business worries in a woman's lap; another prefers to conceal them. One prefers to have the children around; another likes to shoo the children out. One likes to stay in and read, another likes to go out for talk. One likes to have guests, another prefers family solitude. Oh there are many men of many minds, but in one respect husbands are all alike: They want a pleasant companionship with women or they wouldn't have signed up. When they can't find it at home they seek and find it elsewhere, so to speak. Vary your life with most of them who seek and find pleasant companionship elsewhere than in their homes, come to brief, if not divorce and the great grief is inflicted on the wife. Ladies, look well to your marriage ledgers and see if you are in the red.

Every woman loves a commodious smock to slip into when she prepares refreshments or works in the garden or "slaves" at the office, and this fetching model will answer a thousand needs.

Like most good smocks, it opens down the front and boasts two ample pockets. The sleeves are slit for quick movements and cut in one with the yoke, a feature beginners will find easy to understand. Complying with the trend to simplicity it requires only a few bright buttons and piping for decorative purposes. For versatility add a belt and note the spreading hem which gives a tunic effect—very smart and arty. The pockets may be eliminated. Two lengths are available—the three-quarter or the full length.

INSTALLMENT II.

One morning he came stumping timidly into the office of the Post and purchased a few papers. These he offered for sale upon the streets with great diffidence. Crip had no difficulty in selling his papers. People stopped and bought readily the wares of this shrinking, weak-voiced youngster. His wooden leg caught the eye of hurrying passers-by and the nickels rained into his hand as long as he had any papers left.

One morning Crip failed to call for his papers. The next day he did not appear, nor the next, and one of the newshoys was duly questioned as to his absence.

"Crip's got de pneumonia," he said.

The Post man, albeit weighed down by numerous tribulations of others and his own, when night comes puts on his overcoat and wends his way down the bayou toward the home of Crip.

The air is chilly and full of mist, and great paddles left by the recent rains glimmer and sparkle in the electric lights. No wonder that pneumonia has laid its cold hand upon the frail and weakly Crip, living as he does in the rain-soaked shanty down on the water's edge. The Post man goes to inquire if he has a doctor and if he is supplied with the necessities his condition must require. He walks down the railroad tracks and comes close upon two figures marching with uncertain stateliness in the same direction.

One of them speaks loudly, with oratorical flourish, but with an exaggerated carelessness that proclaims he is in a certain stage of intoxication. His voice is well known in the drawing rooms and the highest social circles of Houston. His name is—well, let us call him Old Boy, for so do his admiring companions designate him. There comes hurrying past them the form of a somberly-clad woman.

Intuitively the Post man thinks she is of the House of Crip and accosts her with interrogatories. He gleams from her gasping brogue that a doctor has seen Crip and that he is very sick, but with proper medicines, nursing and food he will probably recover. She is now hastening to the drug store to buy—with her last dollar, she says—the medicine he must take at once.

"I will stay with him until you return," says the Post man, and with a fervent "Haven't you, sorr," she melts away toward the lights of the city.

Old Boy's friend ranges himself in the background. He is a man in a dress suit with a cackintosh and cane, and is not of an obtrusive personality. He shows an inclination to brace himself against something, but the fragile furniture of the hut not promising much support, he stands uneasily, with a perplexed frown upon his face, awaiting developments.

"You little devil," says Old Boy, smiling down with mock anger at the little scrap of humanity under the covers. "Do you know why I've come to see you?"

"N-n-n-no, sir," says Crip, the fever flush growing deeper on his cheeks. He has never seen anything so wonderful as this grand, tall, handsome man in his black evening suit, with the dark, half-smiling, half-frowning eyes, and the great diamond flashing on his snowy bosom, and the tall, shiny hat on the back of his head.

"Gentlemen," says Old Boy, with a comprehensive wave of his hand, "I don't know myself, but I have come here, but I couldn't help it. That little devil's eyes have been in my head for a week. I've never seen him in my life till a week ago; but I've seen his eyes somewhere, long time ago. Sheems to me I knew this little rascal when I was a kid 'way back before I left Alabama; but, then, gentlemen, that's impossible. However, as Bobby will tell you, I made him walk all the way down here with me to where the little sick fellow, 'n now we mus' do all we can for 'm."

Old Boy runs his hands into his pockets and draws out the contents thereof and lays all, with lordly discrimination, on the ragged quilt that covers Crip.

"Little devil," he says solemnly, "you mus' buy medicine and get well and come back and sell me papers again. Where in thunder have I seen you before? Never mind. Come on, Bobby—good boy to wait for me—come on now and get a drink."

The two magnificent gentlemen away and no grandly for a moment, make elaborate but silent adieu in the direction of Crip and the Post Man, and finally dwindle out into the darkness, where they can be heard urging each other forward to the tremendous feat of remounting the steps that lead to the parlour above.

Presently Crip's mother returns with his medicine and proceeds to make him comfortable. She gives a scream of surprise at what she sees lying upon the bed, and proceeds to take an inventory. There are $42 in currency, $8.50 in silver, a lady's silver slipper buckle and an elegant pearl-handled knife with four blades.

The Post Man sees Crip take his medicine and his fever go down, and promising him to bring down a paper that tells all about the great first he moves away. A thought strikes him, and he stops near the door and says: "Your husband, now where was he from?"

"Oh, please yer honor," says Crip's mother, "from Alabama he was, and a gentleman born, as every one could tell till the drink got away wid him, and thin he married me."

As the Post Man departs he hears Crip say to his mother reverentially: "Mammy, he couldn't have been dead, for God don't get full; but if it wasn't him, mammy, I bet a dollar he was Dan Stuart."

At the Post Man trudges back along the dark road to the city, he says to himself:

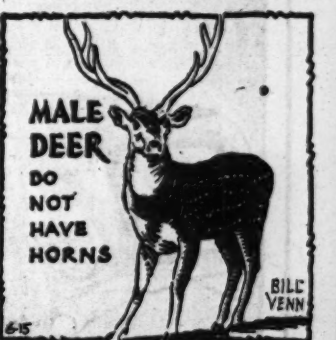

"We have seen tonight good springing up where we have never have looked for it, and something of a mystery all the way from Alabama. Heigho! this is a funny little world."

THE END.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

It is known, to most people that female deer do not have horns, but the truth is that males do not have horns, either. The so-called "horns" on deer, elk, moose, reindeer and caribou are not horns at all; they are antlers. Horns are found on cattle, antelope and sheep. They are hollow, horny growths which are not shed, but are kept through life, and are not replaced if broken off. Antlers are solid, bony growths which are shed and replaced annually, or at other intervals, and if broken off, are replaced. Maybe the devil's horns are really antlers, too!

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC.

VI—The First Successful Flight.

Who made the first successful trip over the Atlantic in a flying machine?

Some persons might say "Charles Lindbergh," but they would be wrong.

Eight years before Lindbergh made his famous trip, the Aztec, was the first to cross by seaplane, by land plane, and by airship.

The sea looked a bit choppy, but not nearly so much so as it proved to be. The flying boat struck the top of a wave, went into the trough of two others, then was battered by a giant billow which cracked the hull. For two days and two nights the commander and his crew baled and balanced the seaplane, until, at last, they were able to taxi to one of the Azores islands, 200 miles from the place it had come down.

Much the same thing happened to the NC-1 in the fog of that May day. It was brought down to the water, and drifted around for six hours before it was located by a steamer.

Meanwhile the NC-4 was having better fortune. Its engines worked more smoothly, and it flew faster. At the end of the first day, Lieutenant commander Read caught sight of an island, but decided not to go down because of the choppy waters. Two hours later, he and his four companions made a safe landing off the shore of Flores, another island of the Azores group.

From the Azores, the NC-4 flew to Lisbon, Portugal, finishing the first flight across the Atlantic. Later the seaplane flew to England, where Read and his men were honored for their great deed. The actual ocean flying time was 24 hours and 42 minutes, though the journey was much longer because of time spent at the Azores.

The first non-stop flight was made a month later by two British aviators, of whom we shall speak tomorrow.

THE RULES

- 1.—The "GREAT NAMES" contest is open to every reader of the Atlanta Constitution, being a bona fide resident of either the state of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama or Florida, with the exception of employees of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and members of their families and with the further exception of any person who has won $1,500 or more in any previous newspaper contest. NOTE—You do not need to be a regular subscriber. You may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your newsstand.
- 2.—Beginning Sunday, June 14, 1936, and continuing each day for 12 weeks, The Atlanta Constitution will publish a cartoon. Each cartoon will in some way suggest or represent a name. The name may be that of a person, city, state, nation, book, song or motion picture.
- 3.—The Atlanta Constitution will award a first prize of $4,000 as part of $6,000 in prizes to the person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate name to each of the 84 cartoons and in all other ways conforming to these Official Rules. The person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate names to all 84 cartoons and otherwise complying with these Official Rules shall be eligible for First Prize. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solution to the 84 cartoons and

- otherwise complying with all these Official Rules shall be eligible for additional prizes in the order of the correctness of their answers.
- 4.—Neatness will not count. Do not decorate your answers. Just name the cartoons in accordance with the rules.
- 5.—In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are persons tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more persons tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct names to the 84 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them and will be awarded in the order of the correctness of such contestants (without cost) to a second and, if necessary, a third or fourth series of cartoons. In the event of final ties, a prize identical with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.
- 6.—To expedite filling, answers or solutions in this contest should be submitted as follows: At the end of each week, during which a series of seven cartoons will have been printed in The Atlanta Constitution, the contestant is requested to mail or bring the answers to the seven cartoons to the Great Names Editor, care of the Atlanta Constitution, in a unit. Solutions to this contest are to be submitted in a series, seven at a time. The answers to the cartoons printed during any week may be submitted during the following week.

- 7.—In order to qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each of the 12 series of answers with a remittance of $1.00 in coin in payment for a special print of the week's featured cartoon, purchase of which is a condition for entering the contest. The Special Prints, suitable for framing, will be mailed to the contestant in one set, at the close of the contest.
- 8.—Any person upon entering the contest, and by the submission of answers, agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution and the contest editor, on all matters affecting the conduct of the contest, the making of the awards, and procedure and policy, with regard to the acceptance of submissions during the contest.
- 9.—Answer forms to which no names are signed will not be considered nor will any claims to the ownership to such answers be recognized. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for answers or communications unduly delayed or lost in transit either from the contestant to The Atlanta Constitution or from The Atlanta Constitution to the contestant.
- 10.—A contestant is permitted to submit as many sets of 84 solutions as he or she chooses, provided same are properly qualified, and each will be judged as a unit, but no person will be awarded more than one prize. When submitting additional sets of answers, all series must be identified as Sets A, B, C, etc.

Motor Fuel Savings Are Offered by Speed Oil Company

SUPER-SPEED GAS FEATURES QUALITY

Products Insure Efficiency, Economy; Stations Are Well Located.

The proven purity and full value of Super-Speed Anti-Knock gasoline and of Real Penn 100 per cent Pennsylvania oil are turning motorists more and more into the pathway of economy, declares H. H. Hardin, president of the Speed Oil Company, which maintains independent filling stations not only in Atlanta but in a number of other Georgia cities.

"Economy is a necessity in the operation of an automobile," says Mr. Hardin, "and when this economy goes hand in hand with first quality it is natural that literally thousands of Georgia motorists should turn to Speed Oil Company stations for gasoline and oil. They thus show a clear-cut recognition of quality in Super-Speed Anti-Knock gasoline, which is an unusually high gravity, high (88) octane, straight run gasoline, absolutely free from foreign substances. These qualities insure quick starting, long mileage per gallon, efficient motor operation and motor preservation."

Federal Bureau of Standards tests, Mr. Hardin asserts, recently have proven that the motorist can obtain maximum fuel efficiency in Super-Speed Anti-Knock without paying the customary premium of several cents a gallon which he pays on many other gasolines.

Mr. Hardin calls special attention also to Real Penn 100 per cent Pennsylvania oil carried at all Speed Oil stations in both bulk and in original sealed cans. This, he states, is produced from Bradford top grade crude oil, widely advertised as "the world's highest grade crude oil."

Low prices and consequent economy for the consumer, it is stated, result from the Speed Oil company's affiliation with the Refiners Oil Corporation, with headquarters at 62 McDermott street, N. W., which purchases in tank car shipments to serve Speed Oil stations and other independent jobbers in car or less quantities.

The Speed Oil company maintains at present five Atlanta filling stations, at 758 Ponce de Leon avenue and 363 Whitehall street, both of which are open 24 hours of the day, and at 906 Peachtree street, 2710 Stewart avenue and 471 Peters street. At these stations, overhead service is eliminated, thus bringing to the customer the full benefit of low gasoline and oil prices.

Both Super-Speed Anti-Knock gasoline and Real Penn oil, as well as Quaker State and Kendall oils, are available not only at the Atlanta stations, but also at the company's stations in Rome, Dalton, Calhoun, Lawrenceville and Athens. They also are available at Independent Oil Company stations in Griffin and at Orchard Hill, the Independent Gasoline Company in Gainesville, The Tank Car Service, Inc., in Albany, the Blue Ribbon Oil Company in Valdosta, and the Crescent Oil Company in Bainbridge.

The Atlanta stations feature a premium card plan through which the customer may obtain a handsome set of silverware, either by the piece or a complete set at one time. These cards are issued with each purchase.

Atlanta and Georgia motorists are invited by Mr. Hardin to visit Speed Oil stations or the others mentioned here, and to investigate the major savings offered in automotive fuels, as well as the high quality and efficiency of Super-Speed gasoline and Real Penn oil.

Model San Juan Town To Honor First Lady
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 14.—(AP)—Puerto Rico's next town to be named "Ciudad Eleanor Roosevelt."

The new town, a reconstruction project of the federal government, will be built on a 300-acre tract about three miles from San Juan, officials announced today.

It will start life with a population of 20,000, drawn chiefly from San Juan, and will be completed with churches, schools and theaters before occupancy of its approximately 14,000 model concrete, storm-proof houses.

Manuel Escosque, chief of the slum clearance program, estimated "Ciudad Eleanor Roosevelt" would cost $5,000,000. That the money for the project has not been obtained does not deter reconstruction officials, who expect to begin construction as soon as the detailed plans are completed.

A census believed to be 2,500 years old grows in Winn parish, La.

LOT IS REOPENED BY DENNY MOTORS

Popularity of Cord and Auburn Force Expansion of Auto Company.

Expanding in step with steadily brightening business conditions, W. C. Denny Motors has reopened its used car lot at 511 Peachtree street, where, beginning today, for the special benefit of war veterans, reduced prices will prevail on a large number of carefully selected and thoroughly reconditioned automobiles.

The reopening of the Peachtree street lot, according to W. C. Denny, president of the company, was necessitated largely because of the tremendous increase in popularity of the Cord and Auburn automobiles, for which the company is distributor. The used car department, which for approximately 10 years was situated on Peachtree street, has been located for a time at the company's headquarters at 240 Peachtree street, but has been forced out by expanding business, Mr. Denny states.

E. M. Moore, with many years' experience in the automobile business, is in charge of the Denny used car department, and a capable staff of salesmen is on hand to serve the public.

Every used car on the Peachtree lot has been put through a thoroughgoing reconditioning in the company's expert staffed service department at 240 Peachtree street, where workmanship of the highest quality is made possible by tools and other equipment of the most modern type.

"Our stock of used cars," says Mr. Denny, "offers to the public an unusually wide choice of values. Because these cars come to us as trade-ins on Cords and Auburns, they are almost without exception in splendid condition, since their previous owners are accustomed to giving their cars good care. However, each is given a thorough reconditioning, and when placed on the lot they bear something better than a written guarantee—the backing of our long and satisfactory record in the automotive field."

Mr. Denny recently returned from Auburn, Ind., and Commerceville, Ind., where he visited the Cord and Auburn plants, and reports both are taxed to capacity with production of new cars to meet the growing demand.

The Cord, Mr. Denny asserts, "still stands out as one of the most sensational developments in automotive history, its front drive representing a distinct and popular departure from conventional design and construction. It is destined to mark the beginning of a new era in automobile development."

"The dual ratio feature of the Auburn likewise constitutes an equally important development in automotive construction, and is largely responsible for the increasing demand for this car. Dual ratio provides greater smoothness, quietness and economy. It makes possible a 60-mile-an-hour speed with only 40-mile-an-hour engine speed."

Mr. Denny invites the prospective automobile buyer to visit the Cord and Auburn sales and display rooms as well as the company's used car lot, and to investigate the numerous fine values there offered.

Drennon & Zahn, Inc., Executive Stresses Importance of Springs Riding Comfort

Harry S. Boling, president of Drennon & Zahn, Inc., automotive specialists, stands at the extreme right, beside a part of the company's shop and office staff.

Summer vacation time is a period when the greatest possible riding comfort is most desirable in the automobile, declares Harry S. Boling, president of Drennon & Zahn, Inc., 449 Marietta street, N. W. "Yet, thousands of cars are being driven with broken or badly adjusted springs."

"Many people fail to realize," says Mr. Boling, "the importance of springs to safe as well as comfortable driving. Along the highways now, literally thousands of automobiles are streaming along, perhaps headed for the mountains or the beaches, with broken spring leaves, springs that have lost their resiliency, or springs that are so improperly adjusted that they can only make riding unsafe and uncomfortable."

"Many of these motorists, if they realize the discomfort at all, blame it on the seats, the chassis or anything but the springs. Or if they note any element of improper performance, they blame it on the steering gear, the tires, the transmission or even the engine. They drive on and on, and pay no heed to their springs."

Drennon & Zahn, Inc., for the last 19 years has specialized in "fenders, springs and other things" (its motto), and thus has qualified through the years to render to the motorist a thoroughgoing service. While its fender, axle, wheel, frame and welding departments are not to be overlooked, it renders, in the matter of springs, a service as thoroughly expert as in the others enumerated. Its spring shop is one of the most complete in the south.

The company is prepared to repair, adjust or replace springs for every type of passenger automobile or truck. It employs only factory trained men, who have at their fingertips the most modern types of equipment for their highly specialized work. These men, in their respective departments, work under the direct personal supervision of department heads whose connections with Drennon & Zahn, Inc., range in length from 7 to 16 years. Each workman has been carefully trained in his own particular line of work.

Drennon & Zahn, Inc., carries a complete line of Rowland springs for the wholesale and retail trade. Its parts department also is prepared to supply Eostoria fenders and Spiro running boards, both of which have won widespread recognition in the automotive field.

The company especially invites Atlanta motorists to avail themselves of the free inspection service offered by Drennon & Zahn, Inc., on front axle and wheel alignment, and at the same time have their springs checked, so that they may enjoy the maximum of comfort and safety in their summer driving. This spring checkup, Mr. Boling states, includes the tightening of spring clips that have become loosened, and expert advice on what is needed to put the springs in first-class order.

Motorists also are invited to investigate the many other expert services made available by Drennon & Zahn, Inc., and to avail themselves of this specialized assistance to the end that they may drive with a greater degree of safety.

ENVELOPE COLORS COLOR IN PRINTING INFLUENCE TRADE AIDS ADVERTISING

Size, Shape, Outside Copy and Other Factors Important, Says Guthman.

Along with the business of manufacturing envelopes, the Atlanta Envelope Company is constantly investigating new developments and vogue in direct mailing.

According to Sig Guthman, president, one of its latest "finds" is an amazing increase in effectiveness by varying size, shape and color of envelopes, method of addressing, weight of stock, method of using postage.

"We have tried it ourselves," declared Mr. Guthman, "and can verify that attention to these details, trivial as they may seem, will greatly increase results from direct mailings."

"We recommend that you consider using stamps of varying denominations, that you send your mailings in envelopes of several different colors; that you address them in various ways, by typewriter, by hand, by mailing plates, and that you even change the color of ink to harmonize with the colored stock of the envelopes."

"We are quite safe in urging you to use your imagination to create different envelopes," continued Mr. Guthman, "because the Atlanta Envelope Company, with its flexible manufacturing equipment, is in a position to produce any commercial envelope in any size or shape you desire. There won't be any delay on your part either. So well equipped is our plant that we can design your envelope and turn out the lot at top speed on the very day promised. We are especially proud of the fact that it is never necessary for us to make envelopes 'for stock'; that we can deliver fresh envelopes to every customer with our fast, modern machinery."

The Atlanta Envelope Company maintains also for the customer's convenience a complete creative and layout service, which is prepared to render invaluable help to its clients in the preparation of their advertising matter.

ALL WORSHIP MAMMON.
"We will now discuss Georgia affairs. I am making this appeal to the people of Georgia in an expression of love for all. At this time all the world has forgotten God, love and brotherhood. We all worship mammon. If you go to your neighbor to talk to him about the conditions of our country, as soon as he finds out that your conversation is not leading up to his selfish desires he does not hear you."

"It is not for myself that I ask to be your chief servant. Selfishness and aggrandizement reigns throughout the country, and I am begging and pleading with you to think for yourselves, because if you do not, the whole structure of civilization will collapse. We have not an outstanding public statesman in the state that I know of. The politicians have rushed headlong to get control of the finances of the state until they have a regular network of 'bloodsuckers' and 'parasites' all over the state."

All in Factions.
"There is certainly no hope of getting anything out of either the state or look after the affairs of the state."

MERIWETHER CITIZEN IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

C. O. Trammell Announces Candidacy and Outlines Platform.

C. O. Trammell, Meriwether county citizen, who lives near Chipley, yesterday announced his candidacy for governor on a nine-point platform.

His statement announcing his candidacy follows:

"First—A reduction of the ad valorem tax on real estate to one mill. One dollar per thousand."

"Item 2—The ad valorem tax is obsolete and works a hardship on all real estate holders, particularly the railroads."

Retail Sales Tax.
"Second—A flat retail sales tax of two per cent on all sales in Georgia, except milk. Tax to be figured on invoices of all purchases by retailer."

"A tax of five mills on the gross income of all corporations."

"These taxes to be regulated according to what is fair and just and the needs of the state. Sales and ad valorem taxes shall be collected by the county commissioners and income taxes paid to the state revenues commission semi-annually."

"Item 2—The flat retail sales tax is absolutely fair as it places the tax on all sales without missing it. All people who understand it—especially the colored folks in Georgia—are anxious to pay their part so that the state will be able to educate all the children of the state without discrimination."

For Law Enforcement.
"Third—An appropriation of seven hundred and fifty dollars shall be made to each militia district for law enforcement. Two hundred and fifty dollars to the justice of the peace and two hundred dollars shall be under bond to the state of Georgia to see that the laws are kept in full force and effect, and subject to dismissal on proof or negligence on their part."

"Item 3—According to Mr. Hoover of the Department of Justice, statistics show that crime is costing the people of the United States $15,000,000,000 annually. Under our present form of government, we are a free people only in name. We have a justice of the peace and two constables for each militia district whose duty it is to keep peace, but there is no provision to pay these officials. Consequently the courts do not operate successfully. With a small salary to the officers crime could be blotted from the state of Georgia."

For the Schools.
"Fourth—The state shall take over all indebtedness of public school districts where an ad valorem tax has been levied by the district. All public schools shall receive their prorata share of the state funds according to the number of pupils. All public schools shall be supplied with the necessary books by the state."

"Fifth—The department of agriculture shall confine its activities to helping the farmer. It shall not devote its time to building up a political machine. It shall co-operate with federal departments as far as possible."

"Sixth—The highway department shall be readjusted so that it cannot set up a political bloc to keep down the progress of the federal government and the county commissioners of roads and revenues."

Would Shift Judges.
"Seventh—All judges of superior courts should reside in other courts than those in which they reside."

"Eighth—The general assembly is to be reduced from an unnecessary present number of 18 senators and 36 representatives."

"Ninth—There are too many parasites around the capital and throughout the state that create an unnecessary expense. They must be removed."

Introduces Self.
"Having announced for Governor of the state of Georgia, I feel that I am so insignificant that I must introduce myself to the people of Georgia. Having given the affairs of state and human nature a continued study for 30 years, I think I am qualified to be the chief executive of Georgia. I seek this office not for self-aggrandizement, but the sole purpose of talking face to face with the people of Georgia."

"Having watched the affairs of the state of Georgia for the past 30 years or more, I find that we have two factions in Georgia, one is the old-fashioned, honest, hard-working, law-abiding citizen, and the other is the faction of the state finances when one side gets in power the other side begins to block its efforts."

People Are Goats.
"Consequently, they only change places once in a while and never get anything done. The goat of the people, I have seen them play the game so much and it always turns out the common people are the goats. At present, the two factions are waging a most bitter fight and I fear that I can see and hear it. It is Mr. Talmadge and his gang versus the federal administration."

"It is not my intention to say anything about anybody. The bad things show themselves, so it is not necessary for me to say anything except the good."

Drunk With Power.
"Mr. Talmadge as I see it, is only drunk with power. He has done more since he has been Governor than all the Governors since the Civil War. Some good and some I do not think so well of. I do not believe, however, that he should have gone out of his way to criticize the administration. I do not think for myself, when he became President of the United States, we had come to the 'jumping off place.'"

"Even though Mr. Roosevelt does nothing except his action in saving the banks and the organization of the CCC camps, he has done more for humanity and more for the nation than any President in modern times. The CCC camps have saved the souls of millions and millions of boys now good citizens of our country instead of robbers and gangsters. Take it from me, it is the first duty of every man, woman and child in Georgia to carry on the works that he has started."

All in Factions.
"We will now discuss Georgia affairs. I am making this appeal to the people of Georgia in an expression of love for all. At this time all the world has forgotten God, love and brotherhood. We all worship mammon. If you go to your neighbor to talk to him about the conditions of our country, as soon as he finds out that your conversation is not leading up to his selfish desires he does not hear you."

"It is not for myself that I ask to be your chief servant. Selfishness and aggrandizement reigns throughout the country, and I am begging and pleading with you to think for yourselves, because if you do not, the whole structure of civilization will collapse. We have not an outstanding public statesman in the state that I know of. The politicians have rushed headlong to get control of the finances of the state until they have a regular network of 'bloodsuckers' and 'parasites' all over the state."

All in Factions.
"There is certainly no hope of getting anything out of either the state or look after the affairs of the state."

Nearly all officials are in one political camp or the other

"It does not make any difference which faction goes into office, you are doomed either way. I beseech you now, as voters of Georgia, to come together and wipe off the slate and put in somebody who does not belong to either faction. It is up to you, the crown heads of Georgia, to think for yourselves and put the state back where every officialholder, and every citizen can know and live the motto of the seal of our state, Wisdom, Justice and Moderation—the three words that mean more than the whole English language. To be a Georgian is my highest conception of a human race. I am proud that I am a Georgian and there is nothing higher in my mind than a Georgian. It even makes the hair stand up on my head to hear a person say the word 'Georgia.'"

Start With Oglethorpe.
"When you start to analyze a Georgian and what he is you start with James Oglethorpe when he visited the English jails. He found the flowers of England imprisoned in jails with no crime except that they were white and failed. This touched his heart, and he went to King George and begged permission to take those good men and bring them over here and settle Georgia."

"When Georgia seceded from the Union and we were thrown in the Civil War, our one of our leaders at the Battle of Bull Run was discussing the advisability of erecting a breastwork, whereupon General Barlow jumped up on a stump and shouted, 'Georgians want no breastworks!'"

After the Confederacy was defeated and Georgia lay at the feet of the victors, we were placed under 'carpet-bag rule.' They were planning to be in charge of the state government and Jenkins, who was then governor of Georgia, took the seal of state and fled to Canada."

Another Crisis.
"Now another great crisis is at hand and everybody must lay down all the grudges of the past. We must do something except the brotherhood of man so that we may pull Georgia back to where she belongs."

"I am a Georgian man in my seventy-fourth year. I have studied and served the people of my state for 40 years. Whether you make me your governor or not for your own sake and for the sake of the future generations let us unite and make Georgia the greatest country on the globe."

SENATORIAL QUESTION TO BE SETTLED TODAY
Fulton, Clayton and Henry Committeemen To Meet at Luncheon.

Senatorial committeemen of the thirty-fifth state district, comprising Clayton, Henry and Fulton counties, will meet at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club, at which time Fulton county will request the privilege of electing the senator from the district this fall will be discussed.

High hopes were being held yesterday by the Clayton district that Clayton county would permit Fulton to again name the senator due to the scheduling of important legislation affecting Atlanta and Fulton county for vote at the coming session of the legislature.

Under a gentlemen's agreement which has been in force for a number of years, Clayton county under the usual procedure has the right to name the successor to Senator G. Everett Millican, the counties alternating in naming the thirty-fifth district senator.

It is understood that the committee members look favorably on the request of Fulton county for the privilege and it is believed that in the event the privilege is granted the right to again name the senator, Millican will offer for re-election.

Millican, if re-elected, is expected to introduce a bill in the legislature for the creation of a senatorial district embracing only Fulton county and retention of the thirty-fifth district for Clayton and Henry counties.

It has been pointed out that due to the large population of Fulton county, the section should be entitled to a separate senator. Millican secured passage of a measure to establish Fulton county as a separate senatorial district in the last legislature but the measure was vetoed by Governor Talmadge.

Among those present at the luncheon will be Claude Hutchinson, Fulton county committeeman, Hutchinson and Hendrix have held prior conferences on Fulton's request for the privilege of naming the senator, but no definite decision has been reached. It is believed that Hutchinson will give his answer today. If it is favorable, it is believed that the request will be granted by the other members.

REAL ESTATE OUTING SET FOR TOMORROW
A busy contest in which entrants may wear bathing suits, shorts, sports dresses or any type garb they choose will feature the annual outing of the Atlanta Real Estate Club, to be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Druid Hills Golf Club.

Games, contests and a barbecue will be held in the afternoon, and a dance will be held at night. Jesse Draper is head of the men's committee and Arlene Harris heads the women's committee.

Other committee members are Henry Robinson, H. E. Mayfield, Gilbert Withers, Hoke Blair, Edmond Walther, Marie Suttles, Elise Longino, Belle Redwine, Elsie Reine, Georgia Clay, Sharon and Ruth Stevens.

Three beauty contest winners will be chosen, the judges making their selections on attractiveness of costume as well as on the beauty of the contestants.

GEORGIA PREACHER DIES.
NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—(AP)—The Rev. J. M. Hagard, 60, for the past 19 years pastor of the Kenner and Metairie Presbyterian churches here, died last night. He was a native of Georgia.

Funeral services will be conducted here Monday.

Hamper of Beans Halts Suspect in Midnight
A hamper of beans thrown with unerring aim by a produce dealer brought down a fleeing burglar suspect on Piedmont avenue, near the state farmers' market, at about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The suspect was listed as Edward Jones, negro, of a Houston street address. According to police reports, Patrolman W. D. Nash, who sought the negro for questioning in connection with a recent burglary, saw him on Piedmont avenue, near Decatur street, not far from police headquarters.

Apparently recognizing the officer, the negro ran, Patrolman Nash in pursuit. When the pair passed the produce dealer's establishment, the hamper of beans was hurled. It struck the negro in the back, halting his flight and resulting in his capture.

The name of the produce dealer was not learned.
